WHAT PREMIER BORDEN SAW WHEN BRITAIN'S NAVY STEAMED TOWARDS THE SEA

And at last came the end of the great day, when the fleet prepared to move out to sea for the manoeuvres. At 3 o'clock the mighty Lion weighed anchor, and as her 26,000 tons, gliding lightly as a steam yacht, led the way out to the open sea, she was followed at short intervals by the Inflexible, the Invincible, and the other great ships. In single line ahead they moved on to the horizon, making a seemingly endless line of steel.

All this time there was tremendous activity in "High-street," the mainline of ships. A thousand furnaces were roaring under the blast, and soon a pall of smoke hung over the fleet that would put the Black Country to shame. Then High-street itself began to move. First the Neptune and Thunderer, then the Collingwood and the Hercules, then the Temeraire and the Colossus, and so on, down the long line. It is not easy to convey an impression of the overwhelming might of this armada of steel as it moved out to sea. It was raining slightly now, and the weather fitted into the picture perfectly. The sky, the smoke, and the ships blended perfectly into one sombre shade of battle-grey. Not a spot of color was to be seen in the whole picture as the great fleet put out. There were no bright uniforms of marines or gay straw hats of the sailors. Pleasure was put behind. Beneath the huge canopy of smoke the fleet moved out for business.

It took more than two hours for them to pass, and even then the flotillas of destroyers had not gone. There was not a sound as they went away, and the effect of those great hulks as they slid out into the dusk of evening was almost ghostly. But it was also tremendously impressive and inspiring, and no Englishman who watched that amazing procession of ships, with their 72,000 men, could help feeling mightily proud that he belonged to a race of sea

THIS BURGLAR PECULIAR IN TASTE; STOLE A PHONE BUT LEFT MANY VALUABLES

There have been many burglars of whimsical taste, but perhaps one of the most eccentric on record is the man, as yet unknown, who visited the premises of the Hooper Drug Store, of 88 King West, Toronto, some time between 1 and 6 o'clock the other morning, and stole the public telephone. He took, as well, a pocketful of safety razors, but whether he became frightened or was particular in his selections, he left behind several hundred dollars' worth of valuable toilet goods, fountain pens, etc., which were in plain view in the show-cases.

What use the burglar could make of a telephone is puzzling the proprietors, as it is not an article which could be sold, and at first they thought it had merely been disconnected to prevent phoning to the police. A search, however, showed that it had been removed entirely. Entrance was made by way of the front door, which was found unlocked in the morning, and it is supposed that the burglar used a skeleton key. The police were notified, but as yet they have not reported the arrest of the burglar.

NEW SHIPBUILDING COMPANY TO LOCATE IN NOVA SCOTIA

The British-Canadian Shipbuilding Company is about to establish and operate a shipbuilding plant at Sydney, Nova Scotia, and to construct a first-class drydock within the limits of the city. The ratepayers of Sydney, by a very large majority, have voted a bonus of $200,000 to the company. The first instalment of this sum does not become payable until the company has furnished proof of the expenditure of $1,200,000 on its plant. The whole bonus is to be paid by 1920.

Mr. A. G. Ross, secretary of the British-Canadian Shipbuilding Company, states that the carrying out of the specifications in regard to a drydock of the first-class, repair plant, etc., will occupy from three to five years. The marine railway and shipbuilding yards will be in operation in about two years, and in about three years the first ship will probably be launched. The company expects to build a new ship every six months. Mr. Ross believes they will be able to compete with shipbuilding yards in any part of the world. In the first place, coal and steel, the main essentials in the building of ships, can be obtained at Sydney cheaper than anywhere else.

This will offset the extra cost of labor as compared with Great Britain, and the use of pneumatic riveting machinery adopted in Canada but not in Great Britain will make up for any outstanding balance in competition. Shipbuilding at Sydney will greatly benefit the Dominion Steel Corporation. It will create a demand for a large tonnage right at their gates. To supply this demand the Steel Company will have to enlarge their plant. The British companies associated with the British-Canadian Shipbuilding Company are the John Brown Shipbuilding Company and Engineering Company of Clydebank, Scotland, and the Fairfield Shipping and Engineering Company of Glasgow.

MERELY MABEL REMARKS

That Monday night was a great occasion for one Mason, but tonight will be a great occasion for more.

That by a curious co-incidence last night was a great occasion for Roses, though not for last roses.

That while one rose may build a waterworks, it takes a few to build a reputation for football.

That rice and the Rev. F. W. Kerr make a great combination.

That while he was still an eligible she quite fancied him for herself.

That she never did believe his bachelor protestations never to become a benedict.

That even a clock can strike, but it takes a man to stay with the job and make good.

That the last remark is hardly fair to the clock.

TILE HAT AS HIS SAFE DEPOSIT

While a pawnbroker in Aberdeen, Scotland, was endeavoring to dispose of an old silk hat the other day she discovered in the lining bank deposit receipts for £600. Fortunately the pawnbroker knew that the hat had belonged to a local gentleman who had died three years ago, and on communicating with his representatives she was informed that the missing securities had been the subject of prolonged search and litigation. Their discovery cleared the deceased's lawyers of a suspicion of carelessness. The deceased had been in the habit of using his hat as a bank.

KEEP OUT!

"KEEP OUT!" used to hang as a sign on every factory door. The old idea of secrecy in business made it seem a crime to show outsiders processes, materials, and methods of manufacture.

Now the white light of publicity is being let in by those who depend on public favor for business profits and business growth. The "keep out" sign is disappearing from factory doors and the "welcome" sign is taking its place.

Candor and honesty form the backbone of modern Advertising. Men tell the truth, and it pays. Modern selling relies more and more on the confidence and good will of the buyer.

To-day, eyes are too sharp and intelligences too keen to make deceit possible. Absolute frankness in Advertising is the straight road to confidence. The public demands the light; it abominates and fears darkness.

To-day, many canning factories, packing houses, bakeshops, and public kitchens welcome visitors, concealing nothing.

To-day, many public service companies use the newspapers to tell the truth about themselves.

To-day, many big industrial enterprises are open without hindrance to the inspection of an interested public.

To-morrow, many more companies, depending for their success and prosperity on public confidence, will lift the curtain that veil their board and workrooms—they, too, will come to printing candid advertisements in the newspapers.

The public may overlook, but does not forgive, a lie or an abuse of its confidence. The public regards with suspicion those who attempt to serve it in secrecy and silence. The public is repelled by juggled facts or befogging words. The public rewards with its favor and money those who tell it the truth. It walks and shops where the light shines and where the paths are straight.

Throw on the light!

FORT GEORGE

Fort George is situated midway between Prince Rupert and Edmonton, being at the junction of the two great waterways in B. C.

FORT GEORGE will be the Hub of British Columbia, because the railways have to follow the rivers for a natural grade.

FORT GEORGE will be a great distributing centre, like Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg, because all the grain of the prairies will come through there on its way to the coast.

FORT GEORGE will have miles and miles of trackage facilities, also elevators, flour mills, breweries, etc.

Fort George has a good climate and is a good mixed farming country.

FORT GEORGE district and Cariboo district are rich in minerals.

FORT GEORGE will be connected by train with Edmonton by next spring.

Lots in Fort George are selling fast and advancing in prices; take advantage of this disappearing opportunity and call at once at
