

CHANCELLOR LLOYD-GEORGE IS BLAMED FOR THE COSTLY DREADNOUGHT MARATHON

Berlin, July 31.—Such progress has been made with the strengthening of the German navy, voted almost unanimously during this year's session of the Reichstag, that it is now officially announced that the new third squadron of eight battleships will be commissioned by the autumn of 1914, far earlier than had been thought possible. This will bring the active battle line up to 25 battleships in full commission.

Crews for the four battleships of the reserve squadron, which, according to the same law, are to be kept in full readiness for sea at all times, will not be available probably for two or three years after that, so it is pointed out here that the alarmists in the British press and Parliament are premature in assuming the presence at sea of 29 fully manned German battleships in the autumn of 1913.

Blame Lloyd-George.

This increase in the German fleet, according to the statement of a responsible German diplomat, is solely due to the provocative Mansion House speech of the British minister, David Lloyd-George, delivered at the height of the Morocco crisis in 1911. Commenting on the more conciliatory utterances of Mr. Lloyd-George at the Mansion House banquet this year, and on Sir Edward Grey's reference to the improvement in Anglo-German relations, the official stated that had it not been for Mr. Lloyd-George's declarations there would have been no German navy bill this year.

The extra expenditures entailed by the army and navy bills are contemplated cheerfully by the average German, who finds much more to worry him financially in the increased cost of living, the increase in the price of meat during the past ten years alone costing him more each year than his total annual contribution to the maintenance of the army and navy.

High Cost of Living.

While the total charges for the German army and navy, including this year's increases, are less than $5 per head per year, a German economist, Dr. George Goldstein, has computed that each Berliner will pay 21 marks (or approximately $5) more for his meat this year than he would have paid ten years ago. For the normal family of five or six this represents an extra drain on the family exchequer of $25 or $30. Dr. Goldstein arrives at his figures by taking the total dressed weight of cattle, sheep, swine, etc., slaughtered for Berlin consumption annually and multiplying this by the increase in the retail prices per pound and shown by the official statistics over the average price ten years ago. For Greater Berlin the total extra cost is about $18,000,000 per annum.

WEDDING OF ONE OF RUPERT'S YOUNGER GIRLS WITH MANY WELL WISHES

A quiet wedding was solemnized by the Rev. W. H. McLeod, the Baptist minister, at the parsonage on Thursday evening, the contracting parties being Walter Seringour of the Premier Hotel staff and Miss Lulu Crossett of this city. A merry gathering of the friends of the young couple was held at the Premier Hotel in celebration of the happy event, when the offering of congratulations and well wishes for their future happiness were extended by all. The bride is one of Prince Rupert's younger girls, a former pupil in the public school, pretty and popular with her circle of friends.

James Macdonald was up on a charge of drunk and disorderly, somewhat sadly admitted that he supposed it must be the case, also remarking that it was the first occasion that he had been confined in his life. On the strength of his admission of the impeachment and the evidence of penitence the magistrate imposed the minimum fine of $5.00 with $2 costs.

A. T. Broderick, manager of the local branch of the Union Bank, returned this morning from a short holiday spent in Vancouver and Victoria.

A CAPITAL AMATEUR NIGHT WAS ENJOYED

Before full houses at both of their performances last night in the Westholme Theatre the local amateurs gave a couple of excellent shows. That the reputation of the amateurs in Prince Rupert is fully established was more than evident in the vigor and extent of the applause which greeted each and all of the performers. Such old favorites as A. Stowell and W. Whitley met with their accustomed reception, Mr. Stowell especially in a new song rather reminiscent in its refrain of his celebrated "Down the Strand" favorite thoroughly satisfying his audience. Mrs. Potts gave a popular recitation, and Mr. Bain, in elaborate and effective make up as a blind beggar, sang one or two ever popular songs of sentiment appropriate to his role. His little interlude on the violin while making no pretence at an impressario effort evidently delighted the house. Audience and company alike welcome back to the boards a capital amateur comedian in Mr. Evitt, whose triumph "Enery the Eighth," sung one amateur night a week or so before his extremely popular wedding, is still remembered. Last night his "Standing at the Corner of the Street" was a rollicking success.

KEEP OUT!

"KEEP OUT!" used to hang as a sign on every factory door. The old idea of secrecy in business made it seem a crime to show outsiders processes, materials, and methods of manufacture.

Now the white light of publicity is being let in by those who depend on public favor for business profits and business growth. The "keep out" sign is disappearing from factory doors and the "welcome" sign is taking its place.

Candor and honesty form the backbone of modern Advertising. Men tell the truth, and it pays. Modern selling relies more and more on the confidence and good will of the buyer.

To-day, eyes are too sharp and intelligences too keen to make deceit possible. Absolute frankness in Advertising is the straight road to confidence. The public demands the light; it abominates and fears darkness.

To-day, many canning factories, packing houses, bakeshops, and public kitchens welcome visitors, concealing nothing.

To-day, many public service companies use the newspapers to tell the truth about themselves.

To-day, many big industrial enterprises are open without hindrance to the inspection of an interested public.

To-morrow, many more companies, depending for their success and prosperity on public confidence, will lift the curtains that veil their board and work-rooms—they, too, will come to printing candid advertisements in the newspapers.

The public may overlook, but does not forgive, a lie or an abuse of its confidence. The public regards with suspicion those who attempt to serve it in secrecy and silence. The public is repelled by juggled facts or befogging words. The public rewards with its favor and money those who tell it the truth. It walks and shops where the light shines and where the paths are straight.

Throw on the light!
