Sandringham Site Once More For Royal Family Christmas

SANDRINGHAM, England (AP) — The Queen will spend Christmas day quietly among those closest to her.

Christmas afternoon, as has been the royal custom for three generations, she will broadcast her annual message to the commonwealth.

It is estimated that 150,000,000 people may hear the Queen as she speaks from the desk in the study of Sandringham, her 7,000-acre country estate in Norfolk. Her father, King George VI, and grandfather, King George V, talked to their peoples on Christmas Day from the same desk. The Royal Family has gathered for Christmas at Sandringham since the time of the Queen's Great-grandfather, Edward VII, in the days before radio.

Sunday's broadcast will be the fourth of the 29-year-old queen's reign.

DAILY DECORATED TREE

The Royal Family will gather around a tall, gaily-decorated Christmas tree tonight.

The presents include those brought recently on shopping expeditions by Prince Charles, 7, and Princess Anne, 5.

In addition to the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, and their children, the royal group includes Queen Mother Elizabeth; Princess Margaret; the Duchess of Kent and her children, the Duke of Kent, Princess Alexandra, and Prince Michael; the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester and their children, Princes Richard and William.

Christmas morning the royal party will attend services in the parish church. In the evening the Queen will attend a traditional carol service at West Newton.

Friday night the Royal Family joined in singing carols with a party of carolers who stood outside Sandringham for a few moments before being invited inside.

300-Club Holds Annual Dinner

Two hundred employees, wives and friends gathered in the Canadian Legion auditorium December 16 when Columbia Cellulose Company, Watson Island's "Three Hundred Club" staged its annual turkey dinner party.

The successful affair was followed by an informal staff cocktail party and dancing.

Providing dance music was Hugh MacDonald at the piano and Mrs. Dan Doswell on the accordion.

Chairman for the event was Dan Doswell, personnel manager for Columbia Cellulose Company.

FUR ON TOP — Britain's Princess Margaret sports a small fur pillbox hat with a pom-pom on top as she makes an appearance at Amersham, England. She was visiting the Atomic Energy Authority's radio-chemical centre, which manufactures and distributes radio-active materials.

Tested Recipe For A Merry Christmas

Take the crisp cold of a December night. Add two generous parts of snow, stir in air so clear it tinkles.

Into a generous heart, mix the wonder of a little girl, the sparkle of a young boy's glance, the love of parents, and set gently before the chimney side.

Add the lightest touch of a reindeer's hooves, a sprig of holly, a scent of fir.

Set the mixture to rise in the warmth of a dream of good will to men. It will be almost ready to serve when it bubbles with warmth and good feeling.

Bedeck with the light of a star set in the East, garnish with shining balls of gold, silver and red. Serve to the tune of an ancient carol in the middle of the family table.

(This recipe is sufficient for all the men and women you will ever meet.)

—THOMAS P. McMAHON.

Cranberries Add Tang To Party Salad

So popular are these little molded "Party Going Salads" you'll be asked to bring them often when it's a share-the-food party. The tang of cranberries and the bright, fresh flavor of canned fruit cocktail with crisp celery make these pretty and so-good-tasting salads.

Party Going Salads

1 cup cranberries
½ cup granulated sugar
1 package cherry-flavored gelatin
1½ cups hot water
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped nuts
1½ cups drained canned fruit cocktail
Salad greens

Rinse and drain cranberries and put through food chopper using medium knife. Mix with sugar and let stand at least an hour. Meanwhile dissolve gelatin in hot water. Cool. Blend in cranberry-sugar mixture. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in celery, nuts and fruit cocktail. Turn into individual molds and chill until firm. Unmold on salad greens.

Makes 6 to 8 molds.

Aid To Needy IODE Projects

Half a ton of coal for a needy family and Christmas gifts to needy city children were projects reported by the Social Welfare committee of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, Cambrai Chapter at its December meeting at the home of Mrs. H. W. Steel.

In other business, Mrs. Alex Brebner, convener for Services at Home and Abroad, reported more wool was needed while Mrs. B. J. Codville turned in a large amount of children's knitted outfits.

After members exchanged gifts the hostess served refreshments.

Mrs. L. C. Griffiths, regent, cut a cake made by Mrs. T. A. McNeekin decorated in a Yuletide theme.

PARTY IN PARTS — For a small social butterfly, who must have a change of costume for every holiday party, separates are the answer to mother's budget. These party parts for little girls can be mixed and matched with other skirts and blouses to give her a "different" outfit for each occasion. The skirt is a circle of wool felt by Sacony, colorfully decorated with appliqued posies. The Sacony shirt is a cotton knit with white trim at the sleeves and mock turtle neck.

"Army" Visits City Hospital, Pioneer Home

Twenty members of the Prince Rupert Salvation Army Corps toured the Prince Rupert General Hospital and Pioneer's Home Thursday night, distributing Christmas treats and staging an impromptu carol concert.

Yesterday, the Corps started packing Christmas hampers for distribution to Prince Rupert needy families.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS, England (AP)—A woman threatened to report a bus conductor to transport officials because he refused to let her bring a double bed on board. "Personal luggage is allowed", claimed the woman.

Launching Deb In London Tricky, Costly Project

LONDON (AP) — Launching a debutante in London is one of the trickiest affairs in the world.

Just now ladies who wish to present a budding belle to the Queen are flooding the lord chamberlain's office with letters. The petitions must be in by December 16.

Having an eligible girl of 17 presented at the royal court is relatively easy compared with some of the low links, manipulations and high-powered financing that follows.

Presentations come in March. All that the proud parents have to do is to get someone who's been presented at court to forward their daughter's name to the lord chamberlain.

FOR A FEE

Complete strangers will sponsor the damsel — for a consideration. This advertisement is typical:

"Peeress would like to chaperon debutante for the London season. Write box—."

REAL STRUGGLE

Unless the girl has a criminal record or is an active member of the central committee of the Communist party of the Soviet Union, she'll probably be accepted.

Then comes the real struggle. No general has to deploy his forces more adroitly than a matron steering her fledgling through a London social season.

In this costly parade of the 17-year-olds papa can be separated from large wads of money.

A season can cost from $3,000 to just how high you want your daughter to kick that social gong. There have been heavily fortified fathers who forked up $60,000.

FOR SOME — A DREAM

For some girls it's a never-to-be-forgotten experience . . . soft lights and sweet music . . . handsome young men . . . boy meets girl . . . night rides on the Thames . . . champagne and caviar . . . long weekends in the countryside on hilarious house parties in the still stately homes.

For other girls the season can be a nightmarish stretch of awful weeks filled with heartbreak and humiliation at trying to keep up with richer or prettier girls. Some parents employ public relations experts to keep the girls' names before the public.
