5 Students Win Top Honors In Music Theory Exams Here

Five young Prince Rupert student musicians have been awarded first class honors in theory examinations conducted here recently by the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

The five are included in a list of 13 local students successful in the examinations, some of which included harmony, and history.

Taking first class honors were Anita Rogerson in Grade 3 harmony, and Irene Marilynne Bellamy, Ruth Telford, Lynn Sharleen Wrathall and Thomas Linstrom in Grade 1 theory.

Other results included:

Grade 5 theory—Pass, Roy G. Sieber, Olive Strand, Olga Zabudney.

Grade 3 theory—Harmony and history, pass, Brian Charles Roberts; harmony, honors, Eloise Lahti.

Grade 2 theory—Honors, Marilyn Anderson, Roberta Mary Reid.

Grade 1 theory—Honors, Nita Weise.

Results of practical music examinations held here by the Toronto Conservatory were announced earlier.

NEW HARDWARE FOR SPUDS—Shiny, aluminum nails are the latest thing for baking potatoes. Inserted lengthwise, they conduct oven heat to the centre, thus cutting baking time by a quarter of an hour or more and also preventing bursting skins.

Rev. Thomas Sharpe Arrives To Guide St. Peter's Parish

The Rev. Thomas S. Sharpe, new rector for St. Peter's Anglican Church at Seal Cove, arrived here Wednesday night by car with his bride, and will commence regular services at St. Pete's this Sunday.

Mr. Sharpe, who served the parish last summer as a student, completed theological college at Vancouver this spring and was ordained as a deacon by the Rt. Rev. H. G. Matts, Bishop of Caledonia, June 6, during the Caledonian synod at St. Andrew's Cathedral here. Following his ordination, he returned south to be married.

Mr. Sharpe replaces former incumbent of St. Peter's W. H. Lemmon, who has moved to a new parish in northern B.C.

Kiddies Learn Canadian Way From Nuns at School in Peru

By MARGARET ECKER

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Some four dozen little girls of Lima proudly wear a Canadian maple leaf in their blue berets, not unlike the Canadian army beret. To them, Canada is not a remote, ice-bound country as it is to most small Peruvian girls between four and seven.

Their picture of Canada is much as it really is, but most of all the northern country is the wondrous place from which came their grey-haired Rev. Mother Marie-du-Sacre-Coeur, of Sherbrooke, Que.

These little Peruvian girls are students at the school of Our Lady of Angels. In a charming house, in the suburb of Pueblo Libre, they sit at miniature pink desks and learn the same subjects Canadian children learn, taught in the Canadian way, except that lessons are conducted in French, Spanish, as well as English.

The little girls in their Pacific blue jumpers, covered with frilled white pinafores, don't realize that it was for a far different reason their beloved Canadian nuns came to Peru.

For the last three years the order has maintained lonely dispensaries and schools on the upper reaches of the Amazon and its tributaries. Often these dispensaries offer the only medical help for many miles. The schools, in wooden shacks on stilts, are the only schools. Shy jungle people, suspicious of the Canadian nuns at first, now gladly brave river curents and crocodiles, travelling in their dugout canoes, to attend school or mass.

A year ago, another group of sisters, under Rev. Mother Marie-du-Sacre-Coeur was sent out to open a rest house in Lima for the dozen or so missionary sisters from the jungle. They secured a restful, comfortable house with a quiet garden. The Peruvian authorities asked them to take on another type of missionary work.

As the mother superior explains, "they seemed to have heard that our Canadian teaching was of a high standard and they wanted it for their children."

Our Lady of Angeles rest house became a school. The small, pert pupils, however, are only day students. The rest of the house is still maintained for the tired, white-faced women who are ordered to rest from the hard work on the Amazon to which they have dedicated themselves.

Burns Man Jailed For Break-In Try

BURNS LAKE—Harold S. Kidd was sentenced to nine months at Oakalla prison farm when he pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted breaking and entering before Judge W. O. Fulton in County Court here. The judge cited Kidd's previous convictions in refusing a plea for leniency.

Popular Rupert Pair Wed At St. Andrew's Service

One of the prettiest of Prince Rupert's spring weddings was solemnized at St. Andrew's Cathedral Wednesday evening when two popular Prince Rupert personalities were united in matrimony.

The Rev. Canon Basil S. Prockter officiated at the ceremony in which Christine Florence Worsley became the bride of Percy Young, district forester.

Large baskets of lovely spring flowers graced the church for the informal wedding, for which the attractive brunette bride was charming in a beautiful gown of champagne guipure lace over apricot satin, featuring scalloped V neckline, slim V-pointed waistline and bouffant skirt. A smal shell hat of champagne toned straw and a bouquet of red carnations and stephanotis completed her ensemble.

MAID IN BLUE

Bridesmaid was Miss Dianne Kennedy, wearing a pretty frock of glazed silk in ice blue with matching appliques of lace, and a modified picture hat in white. Her colonial bouquet was of pink and white carnations.

Mr. L. Sawyer Hope of Victoria was bestman, and ushers were Lieuts. C. Smith, N. McLeod and R. Wilson of HMCS Chatham, who formed a guard of honor outside the church following the ceremony The bride is a former Wren at Chatham.

Mr. Peter Lien was organist and Miss Evelyn Hrehorka soloist, singing "The Lord's Prayer."

NAVY RECEPTION

The wardroom at HMCS Chatham was the scene of the reception, for which the prettily-appointed bride's table held a three-tier cake, topped with salmon pink sweet peas, and white tapers in silver holders.

Lieut. Walter Smith was toastmaster and read several congratulatory telegrams from many points in both eastern and western Canada.

Serving refreshments were Mrs. L. B. B. Boulton, Mrs. N. Jermyn, Miss Nina Youngman, Mrs. Bernice Cooper and Miss Lillian Wasluta.

Following their wedding trip to the B.C. interior, Mr. and Mrs. Young will make their home at 401 Fourth Avenue West, Prince Rupert.
