SPORT CLIPPINGS

An international motor boat race from New York to London is to be arranged, and the finish of the first race will be at the House of Commons. Sir Thos. Lipton will enter a boat.

Albert Kerr should be a sensation in the Pacific Coast League. Until he became dissatisfied with his environment in the east there was none better than the same lightning-tempered "Dubbie."

James Robertson, a young inside right from Glasgow, has been signed by Woolwich Arsenal. He is 5 feet 9 inches in height and weighs 11 stone 8 pounds. He has represented the Glasgow league on several occasions.

Freddy Blackman, the Huddersfield Town captain, gave a brilliant exposition of the full back game against Bradford. In fact, the Town supporters consider him the finest full back in the second division.

Parker, the Glasgow Rangers' reserve centre forward, has scored 10 goals already this season. Blackburn Rovers are said to be after him.

Christy Mathewson wants one more chance to win the world's baseball championship. He says he would have retired had he been successful in Wednesday's game at Boston.

Empire Rigger has sent to Bill Brown, a leading Cincinnati fan, the last ball pitched by Christy Mathewson in the final game of the world's series. The ball was done up in tinsel, and Brown says he would not sell it for $1,000.

If golf consisted in following a woman, instead of a ball, around the links, more men would take it up.

London's First League clubs will have to buckle to in earnest. All three have so far cut a sorry figure. The Southern League can afford to laugh a bit just now.

When Paeky McFarland hooks up with Jack Britton he will find he is up against a stiffer proposition than the usual marks he has been battering up.

There is a standing reward of $5,000,000 for the man who discovers a New York or Boston baseball writer who is not so prejudiced that he can give an unbiased account of the world's series.

USEFUL HINTS FOR THE HOME

An Attractive Dressing Gown.

The busy woman, who makes an early start in the morning and appreciates the return at night to comfort and ease, finds a cosy dressing gown a charming garment to slip into. A length of some fascinating material, such as flannel or cashmere, is admirable for this, and a simple little gown, with deep collar and quaint cuffs, may be evolved from five yards of 44 inch fabric. A good pattern should be secured for this, when the actual making will prove extremely simple. The collar, cuffs and belt all lend themselves to being embroidered with washing embroidery silks in tones to correspond with the material.

To Make Grape Wine.

Here is an old fashioned recipe for utilizing the small grapes, of which there is a quantity this year. Take some ripe grapes and bruise them, and to every gallon of the fruit (measured before bruising) add a gallon of water; stir them occasionally, and then strain off the juice. To every gallon of this liquor put two pounds of loaf sugar; put both into a barrel, but do not close it until all hissing sound has stopped. Then secure it firmly, and in six months it will be ready to bottle. Another delightful use to which to put these small grapes is to make them into jelly of the consistency of red currant jelly. This grape jelly makes a delicious accompaniment to cold meats, or to chops and steaks.

Cleaning Doeskin.

Make a good lather of shredded curd soap and warm water, and then let it go nearly cold. Wash the gloves on the hands, and, when quite clean, rinse out the dirty water in clean lathered water, leaving the soap well in the gloves, as this keeps them soft. Dull them off the hands gently, turning them inside out, and dry them in the air or in a warm room, but not at the fire.

Watercress All the Year.

Sow watercress in pots, the lower halves of which are filled with crocks and the upper halves with good mould, and keep them in saucers always full of water. In summer they can stand out of doors in the sun, provided the saucers are kept full of water, but in winter they must be housed. Thus a watercress salad is available once or twice a week all the year round.

Economy of Labor.

To make a scullery table really useful, and able to be quickly cleaned, get a sheet of tin an inch or two larger than the table. Turn in the edges under the slab, and fix. This will save endless time and labor, for wood absorbs grease, and is difficult to clean, besides being entirely spoiled by having hot saucepans placed upon it, whereas tin can easily be kept in condition with hot soda water and a little sand.

STOLE TO BUY GIRL PRESENT

Calgary Youth Admits Crime—Stole to Give Presents to Sweetheart.

Calgary, Alta., Nov. 8.—Infatuation with a woman, and the resultant desire to shower her with presents beyond his means, led 18-year-old George Beddie to prison today for a term of one and one-half years. Beddie was convicted of forgeries aggregating nearly $1,000. In being sentenced the young man made a clean breast of his offences and declared that he had forged the cheques to purchase presents for a girl.

"She was not to blame," declared Beddie, "as the gifts were unsolicited. I wanted to do more for her than her other admirers and my desire to outshine the other fellows landed me here."

Jack Anderson, the well known and popular road foreman under C. J. Gillingham in the Portland Canal district, was a passenger going south yesterday morning on the Prince Rupert for a short vacation. Mr. Anderson expects to return to Stewart in about three weeks' time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Walker, old time residents of Stewart, the former being on the staff of the Northern Hotel for the last two years, went south on the Prince Rupert yesterday morning to spend the winter in Victoria.

You Can Thank Advertising

NEXT time you step into the corner store, take a look around. Of all the articles on the shelves, how many were on your shopping list five years ago? Make it ten years, and you will find that most of the things you buy to-day—and could not do without—were not even made then.

You men and women who buy things, let this sink in. You are better men and women because of advertising. You eat more wholesome food. You wear better clothes. Your home is better furnished. You have cleaner and more sanitary houses. You read better books and magazines. You seek more healthful amusements.

Your whole standard of living has been raised—and why? Because the men who make these better things are telling you that you will be more comfortable, happier and healthier if you use these higher grade goods.

It is advertising that makes it possible for you to buy "the best" right at your corner store. It is advertising that encourages the inventor to make new comforts and new utilities and enables you to buy them almost immediately after they are perfected.

J. J. Hill says this "high living" costs more. True for J. J.—but it is worth more. And leaving the cost aside, do you want to go back to buying jam out of a pail, oatmeal out of a barrel, raisins out of sticky boxes, or tea exposed in an open chest?

Do you regret the money you paid for a Player Piano?

Would you forego the new style razor?

Isn't a Tungsten worth a thousand candles?

Would you now be enjoying these if enterprising manufacturers had not told you about them in their advertisements?

Isn't life brighter because we have new and higher standards of living?

Let us thank advertising for it.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any good advertising agency or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write if interested.
