

A GENUINE TREAT IN MOVING PICTURES

Alaska-Siberia Pictures at Westholme Last Night the Most Realistic Ever Shown in Prince Rupert.

As advertised extensively in the city, the wonderful and unique motion picture films of the Carnegie Museum Alaska-Siberia Arctic exploration expedition were shown for the first time in Canada last evening at the Westholme Opera House. To say that they more than fulfilled all the promises of the advance notices would not be doing them justice. Without a doubt the series of six films depicting life in all its phases, both human and animal, in the land of the frozen north were the most marvellously realistic pictures ever seen by an audience in this city. The expedition, which was headed by Mr. L. L. Lane and Captain Kleinschmidt, both well known big game hunters and explorers known to many old timers of Alaska and the Yukon now resident here, left Vancouver in the spring of 1911. The pictures start with the boat leaving Vancouver Harbor and winding its way amidst the many beauties of the justly celebrated inside passage enroute to Seward, Alaska. One sees passing them the G. T. P. steamer Prince Rupert and the Dominion government revenue cutter Kestral, Indian villages, giant totem poles, myriads of birds, seals innumerable, mountain sheep and the royal moose, seen in their mountain fastnesses, follow in quick succession, forming the most fascinating evening's entertainment that could possibly be imagined. Apart from this its value from an instructive and educational standpoint cannot be overestimated. The films devoted to the pictures of the stellar lions and the mighty walrus are a revelation, few people imagining that such animals exist in present times of such an enormous size and in such vast numbers.

The last film, showing the fight put up by a polar bear in the defence of her cub has to be seen to be appreciated. For nearly ten minutes one follows the old shebear and the little cub swimming abreast of the ship, endeavoring vainly to make a getaway. Finally the cub is lassoed with the intention of capturing it alive, but the hearts of the captors become softened by the game fight put up by the mother bear and it is released. The matinee this afternoon and the evening production will be the last opportunity of witnessing this remarkable series of pictures.

Gold Commissioner Fraser of Atlin is in the city today, enroute south. He will leave tonight on the Princess May.

"This poem was written by a prominent lawyer of this city. Has it any value?"

"About as much value," said the editor, "as a legal opinion written by a poet."

ENJOYABLE BANQUET AT CENTRAL HOTEL

M. Edenshaw, Head of Haida Indians, Entertained Citizens in Honor of His Daughter's Marriage.

On Wednesday evening last at the Central Hotel an elegant and sumptuous banquet was given by Henry Edenshaw in honor of his daughter's marriage to Frederick Nash, the well known civil engineer and surveyor. Mr. Edenshaw is the present head of the Haida Indians on the Pacific Coast. Over fifty guests sat down at the festive board, including a number of well known residents of Prince Rupert. Bishop Du Vernet presided, supported by Archdeacon Collison and representatives of the other churches in the city. Several members of the government staff were also present, together with other leading and representative citizens. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided by mine host, Peter Black, speeches and felicitations followed and merriment and laughter reigned supreme. A pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment was the presentation to Mr. Nash by the members of his survey party of a handsome silver set suitably engraved. The presentation was made by Mr. Arnold, the head draftsman. The happy young bridal couple were also the recipients of an elegant silver butter dish, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Black.

BULKLEY PIONEER DIED IN NEW YORK

Mark Carr, Well Known in Northern British Columbia, Passed Away in Prime of Life.

Word has recently been received at Hazelton of the death at the residence of his brother-in-law in New York on the 8th inst. of Mark Carr, one of the most prosperous of the early pioneers of the Bulkley Valley. The news, which was received by telegram, gave no particulars of the cause of death. The deceased, who was only 34 years of age, owned one of the finest ranches in the interior at Mile 48 on the Bulkley road. It is 1,000 acres in extent and contains some of the choicest land to be found in the province. The late Mark Carr was a native of Quebec, his home being about twenty miles from Ottawa. His early demise has come in the nature of a severe shock to his many old time friends who pioneered with him in the early days of the settling of the interior.

The Only Reason.

A new railroad through Louisiana strikes some of the towns about a mile from the business centre, so it is necessary to run a bus line.

A salesman stopping at one of these towns asked the old darky bus driver about it.

"Say, uncle, why have they got the depot 'way down here?"

After a moment's hesitation the old darky replied: "I dunno, boss, unless they wanted to git it on the railroad."—Exchange.
