TONG FIGHT AMONG CHINESE IN PORTLAND—MEXICAN GOVERNMENT SAID TO BE BANKRUPT

PIPE LINE IS COMPLETE ACROSS SHAWATLANS

All That Remains to be Done is the Re-Calking of the Joints---This Will be Done By a Diver

With his usual energy and hustling proclivities Mayor Pattullo, although only returning from a flying visit to Vancouver on Friday evening last, found time on Saturday afternoon to pay a visit, together with several of the city aldermen and representatives of the press, to the scene of the laying of the city water pipe line across the Shawatlans Passage.

Nothing deterred by the blustiness of the afternoon, the little party which besides the mayor included, Ald. McCaffery, Leek, Bullock-Webster, Sutherland and Naden and representatives of the Journal and Daily News, left the government wharf at 2.15 p.m. on the comfortable little power boat "Dixie."

The visit was most opportune, as giving the party the chance of witnessing the whole of the procedure of the laying of the pipe on the bottom of the passage. Work has been proceeding most satisfactorily for the last day or two and the visitors were assured that barring accidents, the last pipe would be laid Sunday evening, and the difficult task finally accomplished. Without actually visiting the works and seeing with one's own eyes exactly how the pipe is strung out and finally reaches its last resting place on the bottom of the oft time turbulent narrow passage it would be impossible to understand how the work was accomplished. The distance across the passage is only 800 feet and the greatest depth about 50 feet. Ninety-six pipes of an equal length of nine feet, each weighing 1800 pounds are being used for the conveying of water across the passage. The

CEMENT SHIPMENT BY SS. CORDOVA

Arrived Saturday With Cargo for Dry Dock—Proceeded North With Coal

The United States SS. Cordova arrived in port on Saturday en route to Alaska with a heavy cargo of coal. Her reason for calling here was to unload a shipment of cement for the contractors for the new G.T.P. dock at Hays Creek. The Cordova is a well fitted up and serviceable looking craft eminently suited for the class of trade she is engaged in.

St. Patrick's Concert Tonight

Everything is in readiness for the big St. Patrick's Concert this evening. A large array of local talent will be on hand, and a packed house is assured. Not since the last Pierrot concert, has such an aggregation of amateur talent been got together in Prince Rupert. Tickets are selling like hot cakes and it behooves everyone wishing to see the entertainment to be on hand early in order to be sure of getting a seat.

Returned from Interior

Mr. George Werner, leader of the popular Westholme orchestra, returned on last evening's train from a week's visit to Hazelton and other points in the interior. Mr. Werner thoroughly enjoyed the complete rest and change of scene, it being his first holiday since his arrival in the city over a year ago. He was particularly impressed with the great strides that are being made in the direction of opening up the country along the route of the newly built railroad. Upon leaving New Hazelton yesterday morning the town was being swept by a regular blizzard. During Mr. Werner's absence his place in the Westholme orchestra was taken by Mr. A. G. Gray.

CITY OF SPOKANE HERE YESTERDAY

Had Large Passenger List Including Many for the Latest Gold Fields

The city of Spokane touched here on her way to Alaska early yesterday morning. She had a larger passenger list than is usual at this time of the year, there being a number of gold seekers on board heading for the rumored rich placer strike at Teslin Lake. Quite a number from here also bitten with the gold fever took passage. This season of the year has a tendency to produce itchy feet, especially among those imbued with the spirit of the north.

Large Halibut Shipment

Last evening the Princess Mary took on board 25,000 lbs. of halibut sent down by the Atlin Fisheries, Ltd. The company's fishing boat, the Borealis, arrived with a heavy catch on Saturday evening. Besides handling fish caught by their own boats, the company buys for cash all the fish that is offered for sale. On account of this several gasoline boats are engaged in halibut fishing at the entrance to the harbor.

WILL CAUSE SENSATION IN ROYAL CIRCLES

Wife of Mr. Zanardi, a Former Resident of Prince Rupert, Comes Into Prominence Through Extraordinary Life Story

Many pioneer residents of Prince Rupert will recall Carlo Zanardi-Landi, a member of the engineering staff of the G. T. P. during the early stages of the opening up of the townsite and after whom the narrow passage separating Kaien Island from the mainland was named. Mr. Zanardi upon leaving the employ of the G.T.P. engaged for a while in logging and timber operations at Alice Arm, subsequently removing to Vancouver, where it was understood he entered the real estate business.

The name of Count Zanardi-Landi, to give him his correct title, has come into prominence lately through an announcement in the London "Daily Mirror" that an extraordinary life story is about to be published simultaneously in London, New York, Florence, Paris and Berlin. This remarkable book is said to have been written by the wife of Count Zanardi, and is called "The Secret of an Empress. Revealed by Her Daughter." The authoress is said to be a strikingly beautiful woman, residing in London with her husband. She makes the startling claim that her mother was the Empress Elizabeth of Austria, the unhappy victim of an assassin's dagger at Territet, on the Lake of Geneva, in 1898.

The publication of this remarkable life-story by the Countess Zanardi-Landi, is confidently expected to make a tremendous stir in royal and aristocratic circles in Europe. It is stated the Countess has petitioned the Viennese authorities for recognition of her claims. She offers no documentary corroboration, but points to certain remarkable resemblances between portraits of herself, and her two children by her first marriage, on the one hand, and portraits of the Emperor Francis Joseph, the Empress, and the mad King Louis of Bavaria, the Empress's first cousin on the other, which she declares are "incontestable proof."

In speaking of herself the Countess describes her first marriage to Dr. Richard Kuhnelt, from whom she was later divorced, and how she subsequently went to Vancouver, B.C., where she met the Count Zanardi-Landi her present husband.

Cosmopolitan as the Pacific Northwest is known to be, where it is no unusual thing to meet men of all nationalities, sprung from almost every branch of the social life of the older European countries, it is doubtful if there was ever come across a more interesting and attractive personality than Zanardi-Landi. A brilliant conversationalist, speaking perfect English, though with a slight foreign accent, he was extremely popular among his conferees on the G.T.P. staff, as well as with all the early residents on the island who made up the little family of pioneers, who camped in the woods practically, during the preliminary laying out of the townsite. From his conversation, and other evidences, it was generally believed that Mr. Zanardi, as he was known to all here, had had intimate acquaintance with most of the European courts.

A particularly valued treasure of Mr. Zanardi's was an autograph photograph of Pope Leo XIII.
