JACK BRITTON WANTS MATCH WITH WOLGAST

Not Enough Offered for Second and the Deal May Possibly Fall Through

San Francisco, May 3—Match maker Rowlan of the Oakland Wheelman Club has not selected an opponent for Ad Wolgast as yet. "Dumb Dan" Morgan, manager of Jack Britton and Knockout Brown, arrived in San Francisco yesterday and had a conference with Rowlan relative to having Britton go on with Wolgast on May 21 in a ten-round bout. Rowlan conceded that Britton would round out the card nicely, but he is not in any position to make it worth Morgan's light weight's while.

The Oakland Wheelman Club is guaranteeing Wolgast $2,500, with the privilege of taking fifty per cent. of the house, and the club cannot afford the second man much money. Morgan wants 25 per cent. for Britton, and that practically knocks the match on the head.

WAS KNOCKED OUT YET GOT THE DECISION

One of the Queerest Verdicts Ever Rendered in a Prize Ring Contest.

If you were refereeing a boxing match and the boxer who had been getting the best of the battle should run into a haymaker in the last few seconds of the mill and was still stretched prone on the canvas when the final bell rang, who would you give the verdict? To the man who had been knocked out or to the man who had the shade up to the time the sleeper punch went home?

Nine out of ten chances you'll say the man who landed the punch gets the decision, but wait a second. When the gong sounded a total of only eight had been tolled over the prostrate man. He didn't revive for 20 minutes, but still was the winner.

Ed. Smith, who sport edits on the Chicago American for a living and who referees a bit now and then for pastime, was telling a flock of fans about it one morning. Smith witnessed this unusual ending several years ago in Chicago. The go was between Frank Hartley and Shorty Ahern, a smoke welter and was staged at the old American club in Thirty-first street. George Siler, the famous referee of those times, was the third man in the ring.

Hartley had the fight won by a big majority for the six rounds, but in the last part of the final chapter Ahern swung wild and the blow found a restplace on Hartley's jaw, and he in turn found a resting place on the floor.

"Siler started the count, but when he lowered his hand for the eighth time the bell rang," said Smith. "He then leaned over the prostrate man and raised his right glove. Then there was a riot and general hubbub. There had been a lot of betting and an unusual amount of interest in the go.

"Siler, in explaining the decision, said that he was not invested with the power of looking into the future, although it was evident that Hartley would not revive for some time. The fact remained that he was not legally out when the bell sounded ending the match, and that he had the shade by a clear margin up until that time. So Siler declared he was entitled to the decision. It was one of the queerest verdicts ever rendered in a prize ring, and just goes to show that the third man in the ring has a lot to think of besides watching for fouls and separating the boxers."

Food for Thought.

The editor of the Douglas Island News—being somewhat of a philosopher—submits that if many of the residents of Southeastern Alaska would devote more time to work and less time to solo that section of the sphere mundane would be more prosperous.

STRICT REGULATIONS FOR ALIEN AIRCRAFT

British Home Secretary Issues Lengthy Orders for Control of Foreign Airships.

London, May 3—In virtue of powers conferred by the Aerial Navigation Act, the Rt. Hon. Reginald McKenna, secretary of state for home affairs, has issued lengthy orders and regulations for the control of aircraft from abroad, defining the prohibited areas for the landing of alien airships.

It is permissible for officers to fire on foreign aircraft contravening these regulations. Aeroplanes and airships from abroad cannot enter Ireland and cannot enter Scotland between Frazerburg and the Ythan River, and England at three places on the east coast and four on the south coast.

The areas over which aircraft are prohibited from flying number five, and include dock yards, wireless stations, arsenals, railway stations used for transportation of troops and landmarks near fortresses and military works. Aircraft entering England are not permitted to carry cameras, homing pigeons, firearms or wireless apparatus. Foreign airmen must obtain clearance papers from a British consulate and must not enter the United Kingdom until forty-eight hours thereafter and must state their intended landing place and the object of the voyage.

RENO DIVORCE CROWD GREATER THAN EVER

Seven Hundred Wedlocked Ones Waiting for their Fetters to be Filed Off

Reno, May 3.—Never has the city witnessed such a crowd of women and men seeking divorce, particularly the former, in its hotels, apartment houses and cottages, walking its streets and flocking to its places of entertainment, cafes and resorts.

Fully 700 of such temporary residents are here for no other purpose than securing a legal separation from their husbands or wives. They are spending an enforced seven to nine months in any manner which will most pleasantly "kill time" until they are martially freed.

Unquestionably the final rush for a Nevada decree is in full swing. The three leading hotels which have been housing many of these so-called residents, are literally swamped. Every train from the east adds to the throng, who manage to secure quarters somewhere.

The courts have been compelled to set aside entire days each week for divorce business, some single days witnessing fourteen trials.
