MISREPRESENTATION OF FACT.

In the Evening Empire of yesterday is another of those coffin like articles in which the editor of that newspaper so frequently exposes the corruption of his own mind. And this one is well up to the average. "In the estimates," says the Evening Empire, "is an item of $5,000 for incidentals. When pressed for an explanation as to what it was for, the mayor stated it was to cover the cost of his trip."

This looks like a case of deliberate misrepresentation of fact. For one thing, there was no need to "press" the mayor for an explanation. He gave it as soon as he was requested for it, without any need for "pressure" at all. Again, the mayor most emphatically did not state that this item of $5,000 was to cover the cost of his trip. He said that among the things included under the heading of "Incidentals" were the expenses of the city solicitor and himself on their financial mission to the eastern cities and to England.

Even if the expenses of the mayor and city solicitor had totalled $5,000 for the trip, the expense would not be so alarming as the Evening Empire seems to think. If one travels abroad in quest of money he won't meet with much success if he asks the leading financiers of Europe or America to discuss the money question in a shabby restaurant in Soho or on a stool in a quick lunch counter. The man who angles in those waters must not be stingy of his bait if he would have any hope of landing his fish. It would be better not to attempt such a trip at all than to try to do it in niggardly fashion.

But as a matter of fact, it appears that the cost of the trip was very far short of $5,000. Mayor Pattullo stated at the council meeting last evening that while he had not yet had time to ascertain the exact cost of the trip he estimated it at $4,000. And speaking of the statement in the Evening Empire that the mayor had said the expenses of his trip to England were $5,000, Mayor Pattullo said that this was absolutely contrary to fact. And he was certainly quite right in saying so.

As for the other imputation of the Evening Empire, that the mayor was trying to slip through his account without having it properly itemized, it should be merely necessary to point out that the council was only considering the estimates and that there was no more reason why this estimate should be considered in detail than any of the others. The detailed accounts are to be considered on a later occasion.

DOMINION TO MAKE BIG SHOW AT FAIR

Her Exhibits at Panama Pacific Exposition Will Cost Five Hundred Thousand

Ottawa, Aug. 14.—Canada's plans for participation in the Panama Pacific Exposition at San Francisco are yet in the formative stage, but the exhibit, it was learned today at the department of agriculture, will be of much the same lines as similar exhibitions elsewhere.

The natural resources of the country will of course be the basis of the showing to be made.

A year ago, Mr. William Hutchison, Dominion exhibition commissioner, went to San Francisco, on the instruction of Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, and selected a site for the Canadian building. It is the intention to start construction work this fall. The structures and the expenditure in arranging and transporting the exhibits will cost probably half a million dollars.

WORLD'S GREATEST SCIENTISTS WHO MAY VISIT RUPERT.

Portraits of some of the foreign delegates to the great geological congress recently concluded at Toronto. The names are attached to the pictures. On Monday week a large number of these eminent men, piloted by Dominion geologists and the leading mineralogists of Canada, started from Toronto for a tour of the west. Some time will be spent in and around the Kootenay mines and next the coal measures on Vancouver Island will be visited, and also the mineral deposits on Texada Island. The next point of call will be Prince Rupert. A few days will be spent at Kitelas and around Hazelton and then a trip to Portland Canal district, including Granby Bay. After this the party will divide, a number returning and others going on to the Yukon, where, without doubt, the new Shushanna placers will be given the benefit of a combined scientific investigation.

IN PICTURESQUE UNDRESS ARTIST LIVES IN FOREST

BOSTONIAN TRIES AN EXPERIMENT TO PROVE THAT HE CAN LIVE IN THE FORESTS OF MAINE JUST LIKE PRIMITIVE MAN.

Boston, Aug. 14.—Joseph Knowles, a Boston artist, has begun a remarkable experiment to prove that he can live in the Maine forests, twenty miles from a settlement, just as did prehistoric man. He will discard all clothing, will make the woodland furnish his food and shelter and will defend himself from animals or other foes only with the aid of his bare hands or with such weapons as he may furnish with them.

For two months he will make his home in the depths of the virgin forest that surrounds Big Sencer Lake. Twice a week he will go to the borders of the forest to leave communications, inscribed on birch bark, for his friends. He began his life in the woods on August 4th, and word of the strange experiment has just been brought here by a guide who accompanied him to the place where he left civilization behind.

Knowles is 44 years of age, has never married and has always lived a life of adventure. He is one of the few white men who have mastered the art of making fire by rubbing sticks. That accomplishment, he says, is all that is needed for a life in the open by a man of his robust health.

Guides who are familiar with Knowles' plan say he can accomplish the feat he has planned. They say the methods he has worked out to gain food and shelter are practical and that with his knowledge of the forests he will suffer little from the life.

While he is in the woods Knowles will grind pulp on the rocks and press it on birch bark, thus making a paper on which he can depict the wild life of the forest. He will manufacture his water colors from the berries and roots and brushes from the skins and tails of wild animals.

WITH THE MOVIES.

A soldier of the legion lay pierced by foeman's steel.
As things fell,
The lad got well.
It made a lovely reel.

Maud Muller in the meadow lot,
was busy raking hay.
Young people go
To such a show.
Such nearly always pay.

The boy stood on the burning deck; defied a hostile realm.
He knew his trade
And really made
A most exciting film.

The village blacksmith plied his sledge; a scene of peaceful bliss.
And now and then
The worst of men
Like pictures such as this.

IRISH RIOTS

Nationalists and Orangemen Have Lively Mix-Up

Londonderry, Ireland, Aug. 14.—Rioting, participated in by the Nationalists and Orangemen, occurred here today during a political celebration. In the fighting one policeman was shot and severely wounded and many others were injured.

The mayor of the city was severely injured by a stone during the fighting.

If a man's heart is in his work he does a good job. Some men need a change of heart.
