SPECIAL DESPATCH FROM JUNEAU WHICH WILL PARTLY RELIEVE THE ANXIETY FELT HERE AS TO STATE OF CALIFORNIA VICTIMS.

(Special to The Daily News.)
Juneau, Aug. 21.—The following is as complete a list of the passengers of the wrecked State of California as can at present be obtained, giving the names of the identified dead, those in hospital and the missing. The identified dead number only eight, three women unidentified, making eleven in all, but there is a long list of the missing and these, it is to be feared, so long a time having elapsed since the occurrence, must be numbered with the dead also. These number sixteen, making the total passengers dead or missing twenty-four. To this is to be added seven of the crew, which brings the roll up to thirty-four. Several were taken to the nearest hospital more or less seriously injured. All these have been for the south on the Jefferson, with the exception of Mrs. Olsen, who is in too dangerous a state to be removed. ## NO REAL ALTERNATIVE TO THE PLAN OF THE MAYOR

Discussion at Public Meeting Last Night Showed Absolute Lack Of Real Constructive Criticism on Party of Dissentients From Scheme

The Empress Theatre was crowded to its utmost capacity last evening by the citizens who thronged to attend the public discussion of the present municipal situation. Among those on the platform besides Mayor Pattullo were Alderman Naden, Alderman Dybhuyn, Alderman Leek and Alderman McCaffery. Speeches were delivered during the evening by Mayor Pattullo, ex-Alderman Montgomery, Alderman Naden, William Manson, M. P. P.; Arthur Cuthbert and ex-Mayor Newton. Various questions were asked of the different speakers from time to time by members of the audience.

There was plenty of excitement afforded at the meeting from beginning to end. On the part of some of the speakers there was a great tendency to forget, apparently, the object of the meeting—namely, the discussion of the city's finances, and to use the platform merely as a place for vulgar recriminations. Even among some of the more important speakers there was a failure to offer any real alternative solution to that proposed by Mayor Pattullo for the present financial problem confronting the city. The most that was done was to reiterate a cry of "retrenchment of expenditure."

Object of Meeting.

In opening the proceedings Mayor Pattullo said that he had called the present meeting to discuss the city's financial situation. It seemed that by some the vital meaning of the present situation had not been grasped. On the present occasion it was not desired to afford opportunities for personal recriminations but for free discussion.

The mayor said that he wished to refer first to a matter which had not appeared to him of any consequence, but which some people had made much of. These, it seemed, disapproved of his decision not to deliver his report at the first meeting of the council. The explanation of this was that while he had expected a final answer from Sir Richard McBride on Monday concerning the negotiations with the Provincial government, he had not received that answer till Tuesday. It would therefore have been a gross breach of faith if the existence and state of the negotiations had been revealed on Monday. It would have afforded an opportunity to those who were opposed to his policy to endeavor to prevent the progress of those negotiations toward the road to what, it was to be hoped, would prove a successful conclusion.

CITY ADVERTISING.

For weeks, yes months, the Empire has been raising a terrible howl in an attempt to deceive the public and lead it to believe that the exchequer of The Daily News is fairly bulging out with the money it is receiving from the city for advertising given to it on its own terms. The absurdity of such a charge coming from one who should know better is the sole reason why The News has treated the matter with silent contempt. It is rather surprising, however, that such a "great financier" as ex-Alderman Montgomery last night advertised himself to be, should fall such an easy victim to the Empire's deliberate attempts to mislead. If the Empire and ex-Alderman Montgomery would loan to The News for a few hours the powerful magnifying glasses through which they have seen such a tremendous volume of civic advertising the management might become so elated that a substantial increase of salaries all around would immediately go into effect. A careful search of the files since the present council was elected shows only one lot of advertising that is worth discussing—namely, the advertising of the local improvement assessment schedules in the month of April, which was not given to The News without competition; in fact, The News is almost ashamed to announce to the public that it was forced to accept the ridiculously low rate of 15 cents per inch for this advertising.

Ex-Alderman Montgomery is such an eminent financier that he can probably explain to The News how it can become immensely wealthy on advertising at such a rate. The Empire's advertised rate is $1.20 per inch.

Concerning his mission, Mayor Pattullo said that many Canadian cities had gone to the London market, some of which had offered as high as 8 per cent. One of the larger cities, which had ten times the population of Prince Rupert, could only place a renewal until November and could not even secure its extension to the New Year.

What was the standing of Prince Rupert debentures in London? A leading London financier had declared that only the older cities, such as Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver, could expect to finance themselves in London. The secondary cities, by which were denoted those with a population of about fifty thousand, found it pretty hard scratching. The lesser cities, amongst which Prince Rupert was classed, would find themselves in an impossible situation without government assistance.

Before leaving here at all he had asked for government assistance. Again, when in London, he had intimated to the premier that if the province would give its guarantee he could get a million dollars for the city. At that time, however, the premier had not seen his way clear to do this. When he was later in Victoria it was very different. The premier had said that the province had a special interest in Prince Rupert on account of its holdings here. Realizing the difficult situation in which the city was placed, he had decided to send up Hon. W. R. Ross to investigate. Surely the only purpose of this investigation would be to ascertain just what were the most urgent needs of Prince Rupert and to what extent, therefore, the province should give its guarantee.

Urgent Needs.

Some people, perhaps, did not realize the urgency of the need for sewers. Some of the sewers were breaking down in Section One. It had been found necessary to refuse connections in the business end of the city. When the railway came in the city would not be in a position to give the incoming business men sewage connections. Even if a start were made now it would be two years before the connections were in place.

GLYNN OFFICIALLY RECOGNIZED AS ACTING GOVERNOR OF STATE

SULZER STILL HOLDS EXECUTIVE CHAMBERS AND THE OTHER ROOMS ARE FITTED UP FOR OFFICIAL WHO USURPS HIS POSITION.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Martin H. Glynn, the lieutenant governor, was yesterday formally recognized as acting governor, following the impeachment proceedings against Governor William Sulzer. The latter still retains possession of the executive chambers, but last night the state board of trustees of public buildings appropriated a new room in the capitol building and designated it "Executive Chamber" for the occupancy of Acting Governor Glynn.

William Sulzer, the impeached governor of the state of New York, was at the time of his election a people's candidate, a man of progressive ideas and one who was a consistent advocate of advanced legislation. He was opposed by the Tammany organization under Murphy, and now, the people believe, Murphy has set a trap for Sulzer, or had a set of false circumstantial evidence fabricated against him, in order to "get him good." The public sees the curious sight of Tammany Hall prosecuting alleged graft, and howling for clean public life.

As a matter of fact, it is felt that unless the governor can make some sort of complete and convincing denial and so raise public feeling to an enthusiastic support of his case Tammany will succeed. The governor himself said:

"With Mr. Murphy (the Tammany boss) in absolute control of the legislature and the courts it is hard to say how far they can go if they start impeachment proceedings."

The New York morning papers comment editorially on the charges against Governor Sulzer as follows:

World—"The best thing Governor Sulzer can do is to resign and spare the state of New York further shame and humiliation."

Times—"The shame and disgrace that William Sulzer has brought upon the state of New York will end his career and put him out and keep him out of public life."

Herald—"There must be no hiding behind technicalities, no equivocation. It will boot the governor nothing to raise the cry of 'Tammany persecution.'"

Tribune—"If the governor can do so, he must answer now."

Sun—"Whatever may be Mr. Sulzer's own policy as to the place and time and method of meeting the unintelligent efforts of volunteer ascertained facts in this dreadful business, he would do well to suppress defenders."

MINISTER OF MARINE HAZEN SPEAKS OF TRIP TO RUPERT

IS GREATLY IMPRESSED BY MAGNIFICENT SCENERY ALONG ROUTE AND SURPRISED THAT MORE PEOPLE DO NOT VISIT THIS SECTION

"I had a most enjoyable tour of the north," commented Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries to a Province reporter, "and am surprised that more people do not visit the northern sections of this province." He was greatly impressed by the rugged scenery en route along the coast up to Prince Rupert and Skagway and by the magnificent vistas which are to be seen on every hand in the Yukon.

In response to an enquiry as to the investigations of the fishing industry, which he had been conducting on his recent northern trip, the minister said that he had compiled a lot of data and secured much valuable information at first hand, but had not had time yet to definitely form any opinions as to the proposed amendments to the fishery regulations or to make any announcements in that connection. His views on the question of encouraging the white fishermen are well known and it is understood that some important announcements will be forthcoming on his return to Ottawa.

Mrs. George Black, wife of the Hon. Geo. Black, governor of the Yukon, accompanied Mr. Hazen's party from Skagway to Vancouver. Other members of the party are Mrs. Hazen, Miss F. E. Hazen, Mr. J. M. Hazen, Senator W. H. Thorne and Mr. E. Herdman.
