TWO KILLED IN POLISH RACE RIOT AT BENTON-SQUAMISH INDIANS AGREED TO SELL RESERVE

ALL INDICATIONS POINT TO A MOST SUCCESSFUL FAIR

AN EATING SHARK WILL BE ONE OF THE ATTRACTIONS—SPECIAL BUILDING ERECTED FOR FERNS AND FLOWERS EXHIBIT.

The opening of the Prince Rupert exhibition will take place promptly at 10 a. m. at the entrance to the Industrial building, when President J. H. McMullin will receive Hon. Price Ellison, minister of agriculture and lands, who will perform the dedicatory ceremony. It is expected that Mayor Pattullo and William Manson, M. P., will also say a few words. Following the addresses the massed school children will sing.

The busiest centre in the city today is on Sixth avenue, where an army of men is busily engaged in getting everything in readiness for the opening of the exhibition tomorrow. The Auditorium, which during exhibition week is known as Industrial Hall, is being transformed into a place of beauty. Several tables have been built the entire length of the building for display of flowers, and other articles of interest. Along the sides of the building are located booths for various exhibitions.

Just east of the Industrial Hall is the vegetable tent, which is already nearly filled with as a display of vegetables as could be found at a county fair. The best agricultural sections of Canada. Among those making most creditable showings is Mr. J. H. Kitsumkalum. There is also a splendid exhibit from the Okanagan and another from the Okanagan Valley. Exhibits are coming in so fast that additional space is likely to be required. East of the vegetable tent is the poultry tent, which is all ready to receive the exhibits, and a good display is expected.

West of Industrial Hall is the fishery tent, next to that a building in which minerals will be shown, and adjoining that the live stock tent and the dog tent.

At the extreme west is being erected a building with 600 feet of floor space specially for the exhibit of Gustave Gervais, which promises to be one of the most interesting features of the fair.

A special tent will be put up for exhibition of the man eating shark brought to the city yesterday by Captain Selig of the fishing boat Minera. This monster of the deep was captured in Portland Canal by Captain Selig and his assistants. It is twelve feet in length, seven feet in circumference and weighs 1,200 pounds. It took over three hours to land it. The shark is today at the plant of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company, where it will be frozen for exhibition purposes. With such an attraction Prince Rupert is not going to be behind any of the fairs in rare specimens of the animal world.

The city is today thronged with visitors who have come early and hundreds more are expected by special trains and boats. All that is necessary to make the fair a success is the continuance of the fine weather of today.

BODY OF OLD RANCHER FOUND AFTER FOUR DAYS' SEARCH

MYSTERIOUS END OF OSCAR SODERBERG NEAR HIS CABIN
FOUR MILES FROM HAZELTON—FOUL PLAY IS SUSPECTED

After four days' search, the body of Oscar Soderberg, an old rancher, was found near his cabin, four miles from Hazelton, on Wednesday afternoon. The circumstances suggest that death was the result of foul play.

On Sunday, Fred Hagen, a friend of Soderberg, not having seen the old man in town for some days, went to the ranch to see that all was well. He found the cabin and storehouse locked, while many of the chickens which were shut up, were dead. Hagen at once informed the police, and Constables Grant and Russell, with others, began a search, which did not end until Wednesday, when Hagen found the missing man's body in the brush near the cabin, where it had lain for ten days.

Coroner Hoskins ordered an inquest, which was held on Thursday evening, with the following jury: J. M. MacGormick, chairman; J. W. Campbell, Alex. Chisholm, Chas. V. Smith, R. J. Cook, Wm. Grant.

The medical evidence given by Dr. Wrench showed that the dead man had sustained two wounds on the head, either of which was sufficient to cause death, one being a punctured wound at the base of the skull. A minor wound was found on the right forearm. It was evident that the injuries could not have been accidental, but there was nothing to indicate by what means they had been inflicted, and the jury found that death had resulted from wounds in the head and neck, there being no evidence to show how they had been caused.

The investigation into the case is being continued by the police. Soderberg was 60 years of age, and had been in the district many years. So far as known he had no enemies.—Omineca Miner.

PROCLAMATION!

Pursuant to a resolution of the City Council of Prince Rupert, passed September 2nd, I hereby proclaim Friday, September 26th, a civic holiday, said day being the closing day of the Industrial Exhibition.

T. D. PATTULLO, Mayor.

A CROWDED HOUSE WELL ENTERTAINED

"The Mikado," an Old Favorite, Was Enthusiastically Received—"Sergeant Brue" Tonight

If it were possible to add to the favorable impression made by the opening performance of the Pollard Juvenile Opera Co. on Saturday evening, the presentation last night of the "Mikado," a comic opera that has stood the ravages of time remarkably well, undoubtedly had that effect.

Throughout the evening, and particularly in the second act, the audience, which completely filled the cosy theatre, was kept in roars of laughter. That the company is more thoroughly trained and consists of more genuine artists in their line than any other company that has visited Prince Rupert is beyond question. The record they have made in the first two performances is sufficient to assure crowded houses throughout the entire engagement.

Teddie McNamara, in the role of Ko-Ko, the lord high executioner, was a whole show in himself and one or two of his local hits put the audience in convulsions of laughter. N. Pearce as Knee-Ban, umbrella bearer to the Mikado in a silent role was extremely clever, his make-up and his general bearing causing intense amusement.

The popular trio "Three Little Maids from School" was one of the prettiest songs in the first act. Queenie Williams as Pitti-Sing is a winsome little lady and was the greatest favorite in last night's performance. Patti Hill as Yum-Yum appeared to splendid advantage in her various numbers. She has a remarkably sweet voice and an attractive manner.

The principals were well supported by the company and the choruses were well sung and received with enthusiasm.

In the second act Teddie McNamara had to respond to repeated encores to the old favorite, "Oh, Willow, Tit-Willow."

The bill for tonight is "Sergeant Brue," regarded by many as one of the best that will be put on during the entire engagement.

THE IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL OF MAYOR GAYNOR OF NEW YORK

ESTIMATED THAT ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND PEOPLE TOOK PART IN THE FUNERAL PROCESSION TO OLD TRINITY CHURCH.

(Special to The Daily News.)
New York, Sept. 23.—Business was practically at a standstill in the city all the forenoon of yesterday in honor of the funeral of the late Mayor Gaynor. All the downtown business houses and offices were closed and many buildings heavily draped with crepe. Around the city hall, where the body lay in state, there was an immense crowd from an early hour, and when the funeral cortege started punctually at 11 o'clock all the streets along the line of route were occupied with throngs of spectators.

The route was up the Bowery to Fourteenth, through Union Square to Broadway and down that famous thoroughfare to the equally famous Old Trinity Church. Sixteen hundred police lined the route. Wall street and the church yard was one mass of people, admittance to the church being by ticket only. Bishop Greer preached an impressive funeral sermon and the services were full choral.

After the service probably one-half the hundred thousand people who formed the funeral procession accompanied the remains to their last resting place in Greenwood cemetery.

William Jay Gaynor was born on a farm near Whitestown, N. Y., in 1851. He had to help the family there in its struggle for existence, and in this fight he had to take time for his own education. He was graduated from the Whitestown seminary, went to Boston to teach school and afterward studied law in the office of Ward Hunt of Utica.

In 1873 Gaynor went to Brooklyn and became a newspaper reporter. Two years later he was admitted to the bar.

From that time until his death Mr. Gaynor lived in the midst of continual political warfare. He started it with an attack on the lawless saloons in Flatbush, a section of Brooklyn. Ten years later he led a successful fight against the so-called McLaughlin ring in Brooklyn. His battle against John Y. McKane, boss of Sheephead Bay and Coney Island, attracted nation-wide attention. McKane died in Sing Sing. Gaynor was elected a justice of the supreme court of New York in 1893 on a nomination given him by Republicans and Independent Democrats. He was re-elected in 1907, but resigned to accept the nomination of mayor of New York City, to which he was elected in November, 1909.

QUESTION OF EXTENSION OF ELECTRIC LIGHTING DEBATED

AFTER DISCUSSION COUNCIL ADOPTED RECOMMENDATION FOR EXTENSION OF LIGHTING SYSTEM TO ELEVENTH STREET AND TO MANSON WAY.

The electric light and power committee recommended to the council last night the extension of the light service along Eleventh street and also to Manson Way on First avenue, the first at a cost of $270 and the latter at a cost of $370.

Alderman Maitland thought there were many outlying points needing lights that should be first considered, and he did not see why the committee should recommend the lighting of Eleventh street and the whole Seal Cove end of town be neglected.

Alderman Leek replied with some warmth that there was more traffic on Eleventh street in one hour than there was in a day in the outlying district referred to by Alderman Maitland.

Alderman Maitland responded that there were no houses on Eleventh street to justify the expense, while at Seal Cove there were sixteen houses that were entitled to be served with lights.

Alderman Leek said there were at least twenty or thirty men who would be benefited by lighting on Eleventh street.

Alderman Dybhavn said there was a great and growing traffic from the waterfront to the part it was proposed to light on Eleventh street, which he considered justified the extension at once.

There was also the question of finance, the cost of extension to the outlying section mentioned by Alderman Maitland being larger than could be expended under the present estimate, while the report of the superintendent showed that there was still enough left in the estimates to cover the cost of the proposed extension.

The mayor agreed that it would not cost anything like as much to give the proposed extension as to give those suggested by Alderman Maitland. They would reach those outlying districts in time but could not do everything at once. He thought a bylaw would have to be submitted at the end of the year to the electors as to what the council could do in the matter of electric light extension.

The report was then adopted.

EARLY CLOSING BILL FOUND ULTRA VIRES

City Solicitor's Opinion That the Business Men Must Agree
Among Themselves.

The bylaw fixing an hour for the closing of all business houses was brought into question at the meeting of the council last night, and a written opinion was read from the city solicitor that the bylaw was ultra vires and could not therefore be enforced. It was for that reason he had made no attempt to proceed against violators of the bylaw when requested to do so. The bylaw would not stand the test of the courts. The only way in which early closing could be made effective was by the business men agreeing among themselves on the subject.

Alderman Maitland: Then is the intention of the council to repeal this bylaw and allow merchants to keep open at all hours if they like?

The mayor replied that the present bylaw did not prevent this.

Alderman Sutherland then gave notice of a motion to repeal the early closing bylaw.
