BACKSTOP IRA THOMAS.

Connie Mack's portrait wears the pennant smile that he now wears for the fifth time in the thirteen years of the American League, and it no doubt has broadened considerably since last Saturday, when his boys carried off the world's championship trophy and 60 per cent. of the players' share in the gate receipts. Johnnie McGraw's face wears the look of grim determination that it must have borne when as manager of the Giants he looked over the battlefield with the score of three to one against him last week. Indian Chief Meyons is the battlefield with the score of three to one against him last week. Indian Chief Meyers is the famous backstop of the Giants. He threw like lightning in the championship games, and loses none of his prestige in the defeat of his team. Ira Thomas, the backstop of the vic-torious Athletics, has a reputation as brilliant as that of Chief Meyers. Christie Mathewson was only put in the box twice during the five championship gaems, and he fully lived up to his brilliant reputation in the first of these, when the Athletics were unable to secure a single run off his twirling. Red Murray is the crack outfielder and batter for the Giants and the right guardian of the diamond field.

RED MURRAY.

Provincial Engineer Baxter, of the road department, is shortly expected up from Prince Rupert to make an inspection of the season's work on the roads and trails in this section of his district.

Unless a further effort is made to provide additional funds to continue the Stewart General Hospital open it is feared by the directors that the institution will have to close for the season at the end of the month.

F. A. Bell, who owns a business block on Fifth avenue, and who has been working for the past several months with the Northern Construction Company at Kamloops, is expected to return home some time early in November.

E. J. Conway, a mining engineer on the staff of the Granby Consolidate Mining & Smelting Company, recently spent five days examining the Red Cliff mine. Mr. Conway is in charge of the
