WOULDN'T IT BE FINE

Extract From Denver News Which
Can Be Applied to Prince
Rupert

Wouldn't it be a fine thing for this city on this newest day of a new year, if we could inculcate into some of the noisy marplots a little of the sentiment of hope and faith and a large measure of the broader spirit of charity that are abroad at this season?

Wouldn't it be a fine thing for this city if we could burn into the warped souls of some of these disturbers of the public peace the idea that there is no penalty against kindly thoughts?

Wouldn't it be a fine thing for the progress and prosperity of Denver if we could induce detractors to cease their detractions, libelers their libels, slanderers their slanders, falsifiers their falsifications?

Wouldn't it be a fine thing if, through cohesive and patriotic action, this city could end effectually the conscienceless crusades against its business interests, the piratical assaults on the integrity of its business men, the scavengings of the blackmailers, the uncouth and contemptible fictions of the liar for revenue?

Wouldn't it be a fine thing if we could, through individual and concerted effort, help to establish in this splendid municipality a spirit of wide and patient tolerance that would send its leaven through every artery and vitiate the poisons that seem to have permeated to the very heart of the city?

Wouldn't it be fine if we could get away from visionary theories and unsubstantial allegations and dedicate our abilities and patriotism to policies of constructive action, the "action which accomplishes something"?

Wouldn't it be fine if we should be able to send the word broadcast to the world that Denver has relegated her professional blackmailers to their proper and appointed place in the slums of local affairs and freed herself from the shackles of their exactings?

Wouldn't all of this be the finest subject for congratulation to every honest man, woman and child in this thriving and progressive city this first day of 1914?

Now, wouldn't it?—Denver News.

New Lipton Story

"It requires a lot of courage and charity to be philanthropic," said Sir Thomas Lipton once. "I remember when I was just starting in business, I was very poor, and making every sacrifice to enlarge my little shop. My only assistant was a boy of fourteen, faithful, willing and honest. One day I heard him complaining and with justice, that his clothes were so shabby that he was ashamed to go to any place of worship on Sunday."

"There's no chance of my getting a new suit this year," he told me. Dad's out of work and it takes all my wages to pay the rent."

"I thought the matter over and then took a sovereign from my carefully hoarded savings and bought the boy a stout warm suit of blue cloth. He was so grateful that I felt repaid for my sacrifices. But the next day he didn't come to work. I met his mother in the street and asked her the reason."

"Why, Mr. Lipton, she said curtsey, Jimmie looks so respectable, thanks to you, sir, that I thought I would send him round town today to see if he couldn't get a better job."

Bounty on Hair Seals

The department of marine and fisheries has decided that those claiming the bounty of $3.50 on hair seals must produce as evidence the tail of each seal, for which bounty is claimed.

To avoid duplicate payments, affidavits are required to be filed with each claim. Forms of affidavit will be supplied and affidavits taken free of charge by the inspector of fisheries at New Westminster and Nanaimo, and Fishery Overseers Wood at Alberni, Norrie at Prince Rupert, and Grice at Clayoquot.

SAVED FROM WOLVES BY YOUNG WOMAN

Man Trapped in Cave Is Rescued
by Girl With Rifle

Latrobe, Pa., Jan. 14.—Going to the aid of a man who had been trapped in a cave by a pack of timber wolves, Miss Marie Louise Walker of Latrobe, who is visiting relatives in Wyoming, stood off the attack of the wolves and drove them away with a rifle, according to a story received here. Eleven of the wolves were killed before the pack beat a retreat.

Miss Walker, who was spending a vacation at the ranch, heard the howling of the wolves while hunting. She dismounted from her horse when she neared the cave around which the wolves had gathered, and the mount took fright and galloped away. The man in the cave was T. Adolph Van Camp of Chicago, who had become lost in the darkness while tracking deer the night before and had taken refuge in the cave from the wolves.

The hunter had been nearly frozen from exposure during the night and was assisted by Miss Walker to a nearby deserted miner's cabin. The girl then travelled three miles through the snow to the nearest ranch and summoned medical assistance. It was feared at first that Van Camp would have to have both feet amputated on account of the freezing.

Miss Walker has the pelts of five of the wolves that she killed and that were not devoured by the pack.
