SEVEN OF NINE LABOR LEADERS DEPORTED BY GEN. BOTHA

The deported South African labor leaders are seen here as they are being greeted by the union labor men of England. They have been tendered many receptions and dinners since, including one at the house of commons. The affair has already had effect in British politics.

NEW FISHING FEES FOR SALMON LICENSES

Dominion Department Has Made Announcement Fees Doubled—Nothing to Assist Industry

Ottawa, March 19.—Amendments to the British Columbia license act have been adopted fixing the fee for salmon drift or gill net license at ten dollars, for a drag seine license fifty dollars, for a purse seine license one hundred dollars, and for a trip net license one hundred dollars.

In regard to a despatch from Washington to the effect that the United States congress was endeavoring to strike out the clause prohibiting trap nets in the treaty regarding fishing on the boundary line, Mr. W. H. Barker of the B. C. Packers' association found fault with the Canadian government.

"If that clause is struck out," said Mr. Barker, "it will leave things in exactly the same condition as at present—the condition that we have been fighting about for so many years."

When asked by a Vancouver World representative if the British Columbia fishermen would not take the matter up with the Dominion government, Mr. Barker said: "What good would that do us? Every time we have opened our mouths about or to the government, we have been notified that our taxes have been doubled. So we might as well let the Americans do anything they please. In fact, we will have to, for we can get absolutely no protection or satisfaction from our own government."

"We are told by the Conservative member that we discriminate against the white fishermen; that is untrue, there were more white fishermen on the Fraser last year than there ever has been before, and we are always glad to get them."

"If the government would stop telling us how we ought to run our business and give us more aid and protection we would all get along much better," concluded Mr. Barker.

Trapped
A minister was greatly disturbed by a certain set of women in his congregation who persistently gossiped in a loud tone during service.

One Sunday morning he executed a plan he had devised to stop this annoyance. At a given signal the choir stopped abruptly on a certain word in the middle of a hymn.

Then one of the gossips, unable to check herself, was heard all over the church to say: "I always fry mine in lard!" "As we know," announced the minister, "that she always fries hers in lard, we will now proceed with the singing."

Term Up in October

Ottawa, March 19.—In respect to the Manchester Guardian's announcement that the Duke of Connaught would return to Great Britain next autumn, it is learned in official circles that the old arrangement whereby the duke was given a year's extension to his term holds good. His term will be up in October, unless it is further extended, and as to that there has been no intimation, the duke will then go back. Not long ago, the duke, in acknowledging a souvenir from Dawson City, regretted that he was unable to accept an invitation to visit the Yukon.

LADIES BASKETBALL A POPULAR SPORT

Match Drew Crowd Who Witnessed a Red Hot Game

Another intensely exciting basket ball match was played in the Auditorium last night before a crowd of excited spectators. The ladies played a fast game and showed considerable improvement over the excellent game played last month. Sides were picked and represented blue and white. The blues won by a score of 56 to 52, which shows how evenly they were matched. The instructor who has been training the ladies is Mr. Len Porter. He acted as referee and Mr. E. A. Woods kept the score.

The teams lined up as follows: Blues—Guards, Miss McNair, and Mrs. Gilmore; centre, Mrs. Bainter; forwards, Miss Taylor and Miss Morrissey. Whites—Guards, Miss Stevens and Mrs. Vogue; centre, Mrs. Dunn; forwards, Mrs. Woods and Mrs. L. W. Kergin.

An Objectionable Mixture
A worthy precursor got so irritated at a singer in the congregation who used to show off his musical compass by changing from bass to tenor, that at last he burst out, "Mr. O'More, if ye're sing tenor, sing tenor, or if ye're sing bass, sing bass. But we'll hae nae mair o' yer shandy gaff!"

The Tale The Wagons Tell

My office window faces a street, close to the railway freight sheds.

All day long a steady stream of trucks and lorries lumber by—loaded with boxes, barrels and bales.

One truck I noticed the other afternoon was particularly interesting. No two boxes were the same, and stencilled on the end of each was the name of some well-known product—soap, tobacco, socks, breakfast food, cocoa, port, tea, chocolates, perfumery and baking powder.

Gathered there in prosaic wooden boxes were the results of thousands of hand's labor in all parts of the world.

The cocoa had been grown in Brazil, shipped to Bristol, transhipped to Montreal and finally distributed from Toronto.

The tea was gathered by swart-skinned natives of the romantic island of Ceylon; from sunny Portugal the luscious, big grapes had been gathered years ago, fermented, bottled and branded with a famous name; from Egypt had come the cotton and from South America the dyes that entered into the product finally stamped with the brand of a well-known hosiery.

There, behind that obviously prosaic truck-load of freight was the whole romance of modern commerce—the skilled production, the universal demand for food, drink and raiment, and the world-wide distribution of the things we use every day.

And then I speculated why we use these things every day, instead of some other things; and that brought me plump back to my own job of advertising.

The names of some of the boxes on the lorry were known everywhere to-day, but had been unknown a few years ago; and I saw then more clearly than ever before that Advertising is really a great channel digger. It is like the Panama Canal. You can sail from Montreal to Vancouver now, around the Horn. You can get there, but it is going to take months. A year or so from now you will sail through the Panama Canal and chop the journey to less than half. A new channel will have been dug.

The great names in commerce to-day are those of the manufacturers who have let modern advertising steam-shovel a channel across the isthmus of distributing difficulties.

The great names in the commerce of to-morrow will be those of men who widen and dredge this channel so that the greater traffic may pass smoothly and quickly from the source of production to the homes of the consumer.

If you are doing a local business talk over your advertising problems with the Advertising Department of this newspaper. If you are doing a provincial or national business it would be well for you to have counsel and assistance of a good advertising agency. A list of these will be furnished, without cost or obligation, by the Secretary of Canadian Press Association, Room 503, Lumsden Building, Toronto.
