DAILY EDITION Thursday, July 16, 1914.

A lot of foolish people are still talking about the "Americanization of Canada." They are to be found largely among those Old Country imperialists who spend about ten days in making a study of all Canada and then go back and tell their friends and neighbors how minutely they have studied conditions here. Once in a while we find an American who after a trot across the line makes a similar statement. The most of them, however, understand a little more about conditions and they know better.

Between the old fashioned "Yankee" or the aristocratic Southerner and the Canadian people there is a striking difference and no one would even say that Canada was becoming Americanized after that particular type. The American Westerner and the Canadian Westerner are more alike. But this doesn't mean that one is copying after the other. It simply means that similar conditions and environment are producing a similar type and it is neither fair to the one nor the other to say that he is not himself. That the two people should be very much alike is quite natural because also they are of the same breed and the fundamentals of their institutions are one. Indeed as time goes on it is possible that like the Scandinavians it will be impossible to tell them apart. The Canadian, however, is too stern an individual to "ape" after anybody and as for those who fear that the Canadian loyalty is growing cold they had better interview an alienist to see if they are in their right mind.

The man who puts his savings in oil or mining stocks takes a gambler's chance. He is not an investor; he is a speculator. The man who works for wages and puts by savings for a rainy day cannot afford to take the chance. He wants a safe investment where his capital is secure and brings him in generous rate of interest.

That is the kind of investment we recommend to you in the stock of the Prince Rupert Building & Investment Co., Ltd. This company deals solely in Prince Rupert properties. It used the combined capital of many small investors to purchase city property, improve it and make it revenue bearing. The company has no paid officers, the operating expenses do not eat up the profits. It has paid an average of seventeen percent per annum in the past three years.

A limited amount of new capital is being taken in at $11 per share. We recommend it to our clients.
