A WONDERFUL PICTURE.

"The Last Days of Pompeii" an Unqualified Success.

The initial performance of George Kleine's wonderful spec- tacular production, "The Fall of Pompeii," drew a large house at the Westholme Theatre last night and it is only fair to state that in announcing these pictures as the "best ever made," the the- atre management did not go be- yond the bounds of truth. It would be difficult to imagine anything more nearly perfect in moving pictures than "The Fall of Pom- peii."

Bulwer-Lytton's fascinat- ing story is faithfully illustrated. No detail is lacking and the actors are perfect in their various parts. The love scene between Glau- cus and Ione, the storm scene on the mountains, the devotional scene at the Temple of Isis, and the awe-inspiring finale showing the eruption of Mount Vesuvius and the destruction of Pompeii are all praiseworthy in the extreme.

Much credit is due the Wes- holme orchestra for the splen- did musical numbers played dur- ing the performance. There will be a matinee at 4 o'clock this after- noon for the benefit of the school children. The final performance takes place tonight.
