Nine-tenths of one's success! in business comes from his mental attitude. Petrified optimism is the key to success. In the financial struggle occasioned by our country being at war there is nothing that will restore normal conditions quicker than a cheerful outlook on conditions. Most of the people who came to Prince Rupert are resourceful enough to start all over again if they have to. Anyone who has property in this city can wait with perfect confidence that values will come back. In the meantime, if he has to turn his hand to something else he will be unworthy of his breed if he does not do it cheerfully. Cheer up!

Speaking about mental attitude, it is wonderful the large number of people one meets with a grouch. They have developed that attitude throughout many years and of course business runs away from them when it sees them coming. If they are called upon to pay a bill they do it with bad grace. If you ask them, "How's busniess?" they say, "Rotten." Ask them what they think of the outlook, they reply in despair. How a mental outlook like that could accomplish anything is beyond the comprehension of any reasonable of one's fears never realize and a large amount of the balance can be offset by sheer force of

All successful men are progressive and optimistic. The man who is perfectly normal is so by nature. It is only when nature is thwarted and deranged that a man becomes a pessimist.
