"The newspaper, with the law, should assume the accused innocent until proven guilty; should be the friend, not the enemy of the general public; the defender, not the invader of private life and the assailant of personal character. It should be, as it were, a keeper of the public conscience."—Henry Watterson.

DAILY EDITION.

FRIDAY, JUNE 16

TO OUR SWEDISH FRIENDS—AN APOLOGY

To a local newspaper, Mr. C. R. Anderson has written asking "the organ of woe" to apologise for calling him a Swede in a news report. Mr. Anderson is the gentleman who misunderstood the terms on which he contracted to deliver some piles to the city, and who was therefore granted some concessions by the city council last Monday night.

With a delicate courtesy—such as is due from a guest to a host—Mr. Anderson refrained from naming "the organ of woe." But "the organ of woe" was not alone in making the incorrect report. The Daily News also referred to Mr. Anderson as a Swede, and hastens to offer an apology before being requested to.

The incorrect designation was due to Alderman Smith, who asked that special consideration be given Anderson as he was a foreigner, a hardworking fellow with a large family, and not accustomed to the English language. It was only on the representation that Mr. Anderson was a native of Sweden that the council, after some demur, consented to allow him special consideration. It was expressly stated, that the matter must not form a precedent for contractors to take jobs at small figures, and then get special privileges given them.

Now that Mr. Anderson has let the cat out of the bag, and it turns out that he is not the helpless foreigner groping among the intricacies of the English language that his friends represented him to be, but on the contrary an accomplished writer to the newspapers, perhaps the city council will see the advisability of withdrawing the privileges and holding him to the clear and unmistakable terms of his contract.

Since we have read Mr. Anderson's letter as it appears in the columns of his favorite newspaper, we feel like offering an apology to our Swedish friends, for whom we have a very high respect as an intelligent, hard-working, and law-abiding people. We are glad to learn that Mr. Anderson is not a Swede.

Perhaps it is as Mack sympathetically suggests, that Mr. Anderson's inability to understand the English language is one consequence of understudying his favorite newspaper's controversial style.

LLOYD GEORGE

(From the British Weekly)

Mr. Lloyd George is still a growing power in the State. Nor need there be any surprise at this, for in him certain qualities are almost uniquely combined. He has the genius for oratory as no other living politician possesses it. He has one of the swiftest and cleanest cutting of intellects. He has formidable weapons for attack and defence. He has also the capacity of sustained labor and patient investigation, and appreciative, tolerant consideration for views that are not his own. But his great power lies in his charming and disarming simplicity. It was obvious in the House that both parties have yielded completely to this spell. There is no more popular man in the House. No one can meet Mr. Lloyd George and dislike him. His amazing success has left his modesty and humility absolutely unshaken. His own party have the best reason to like him, for it is he, more than any other, who has countered the tendency of administrations to die with Parliaments, and helped the Government to a third vote of confidence. But beyond that, all Liberals know him as a true and gallant comrade, a leader of well-proved courage, and an almost infallible insight. His opponents are not his enemies. They acknowledge his gifts and his sincerity, and they know that he could ill be spared from our public life.

ALASKANS WANT TO BE ANNEXED

Sheriff Eilbeck Says 95 per Cent of Alaskan Population Favor Canadian Rule.

Mr. R. J. Eilbeck, sheriff of Yukon Territory, who is on his way north again says it is no joke that report that various meetings of miners had declared for the annexation of Alaska to the Dominion. Those men were in dead earnest, and he felt certain that if a vote on the question could be taken 95 per cent of the people of Alaska would favor the proposition. They were, he said, sick and tired over the administration of law and feel that a white man cannot get a square deal when his interests conflict with powerful corporations. The feeling against the Washington Government was really bitter and unfavorable comparisons with the administration of law in the Yukon were generally made.

FORT GEORGE PHONES

Extension of System Arranged for to Meet Needs of District

Determined to keep abreast of the rapid development in this district the local telephone company has let the contract for the installation of complete modern telephone exchanges here and at South Fort George. The systems will be independent, though connections can be established between subscribers at either town. The new telephone extensions call for the investment of several thousands of dollars.

Messages from the outside addressed to Fort George come to Blackwater Crossing on the Dominion telegraph line, from where they are transmitted by telephone over the local company's wire, a distance of 60 miles.—Fort George Tribune.

DAINTY ROOMS

Pretty Bedrooms and Boudoirs Panned for This Summer

Enameled furniture decorated with painted flowers and conventional designs in white or ivory are to be much used for bedrooms this summer. A room furnished in delicate pale green has green furniture with white decorations. The walls are ivory and the hangings are all blue and green chintz. There is a tall lamp of ivory wood with a shade of the blue and green chintz. The floor has a dull green rug with an ivory and green border.

Even more charming is a room for a young girl which has ivory enameled furniture, on which is painted bouquets of old fashioned flowers. These are in dull pink, hollyhock red and green, and the chintz with which the room is hung has the same flowers and colors. This room has a light straw-colored matting. The walls are painted ivory white and have a border of bright flowers.

GHOSTS TOLD HIM TO KILL

Gambler Shot His Wife Declaring Spirits Revealed to Him Her Infidelity

Gus William Marshall, the gambler of Denver, Col., fired eight bullets into the body of his wife, killing her instantly on the 9th inst.

He declares he was driven to desperation by spiritualistic revelations portraying his wife's alleged infidelity. After ten years of mystic communication, he says he became convinced that his wife was unfaithful.

He stated to the police that before the tragedy he had a vision showing the woman in another man's arms. He went to the restaurant, which he says she and George Chutes were conducting with his money. His wife, he says, was in tears, which had been induced by Chutes, who was also in the place. Marshall upbraided Chutes and states his wife and Chutes ordered him away.

Marshall then hurried to a hardware store, purchased an automatic revolver and returned to the restaurant. Chutes had left. Marshall immediately opened fire and sent eight of the nine bullets in the weapon into his wife's body. He declares he feels no regret at killing her as he has delivered himself out of torment by putting her out of the way.

GIFT NECKTIE RACKS

One or Two Ideas for Useful Presents in This Line

A birthday gift necktie rack which is substantial as well as ornamental, consists of a hardwood back, covered with heavy natural colored linen bearing a hand embroidered design and supporting a hinged rod of nickel which may be folded backward when the article is to be packed. Another rack which may be easily crowded into a travelling bag consists of a broad strap of leather from which a big ring of metal is suspended. A third tie holder has five ivory arms attached to a brass bar, and a fourth is merely a gold plated stirrup and leather loop joined by a strip of hand embroidered satin.
