NO MORE CHANGES IN HIS CABINET LIBERALS READY TO GIVE PROVINCE GOOD GOVERNMENT

Pattullo Tells Large Audience How Party Would Meet Problems

Unemployment is Most Pressing Matter—Work and Wages Instead of Dole—Reviews Platform

"Let our opponents call it a machine if they will, but I can tell you that the Liberal party has a better organization today than ever in its history and we are ready to take over the affairs of this province tomorrow and enact without delay measures for the benefit of the people as a whole in accordance with Liberal ideals. On the other hand, if you put into office inexperienced men, it will be two years before they will know what to do and the country will continue to suffer during the immediate future when it is so essential that action should be taken. If I am given the majority that Premier Tolmie enjoyed in the last legislature, and I am confident that such a majority is going to be given us on November 2, do you think I will hesitate in putting our policies into effect?"

So spoke T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader, last night in addressing at the Moose Hall here one of the largest public meetings ever held in Prince Rupert.

Most Important Problem
The most important problem facing the province today, declared Mr. Pattullo, was that of unemployment.

Television Test Abruptly Ends

Engineers Experimenting at Dancing Rehearsal Find Rays Reveal More Than Expected

LONDON, Sept. 20: (CP)—An unexpected un-dress rehearsal caused a television test being made by two research men of the British Broadcasting Corporation to end suddenly. They were engineers experimenting with infra-red ray television and were "looking in" at a row of dancing girls who were being televised when, to their astonishment, they noticed that only one of the girls appeared to be clothed.

The experiment finished abruptly and the girls, who were clad in cotton dancing tunics, were told that it could not go on until they dressed themselves in silk. The explanation proved to be quite simple: The dark dyes in the cotton tunics did not reflect the infra-red rays. These penetrated the loose mesh of the fabric, so that the television projector "saw" through everything. The one girl who appeared to be clothed was wearing silk.

ployment. He expressed unqualified and complete opposition to the present method of the dole and declared that, for it, should be substituted the Liberal policy of "work and wages" on a national program of public works. For such work, Mr. Pattullo prophesied, the federal government would soon be lending money to the provinces without interest.

"Where precedent has been found to be good," Mr. Pattullo declared, "we will maintain it. Where it has been found to be bad, we will scrap it and, where necessary, we will make it."

Mr. Pattullo reviewed the Liberal platform in regard to financing, promising the abolition of "nuisance taxes" and efforts to reduce interest charges. Provincial and municipal finances would be overhauled so as to make it possible for the municipalities to look after their people and survive. The Liberal party stood for the encouragement of market expansion and the leader promised that it would be his endeavor to co-operate with the federal and other provincial governments, regardless of their political color, with a view to developing markets and in other matters.

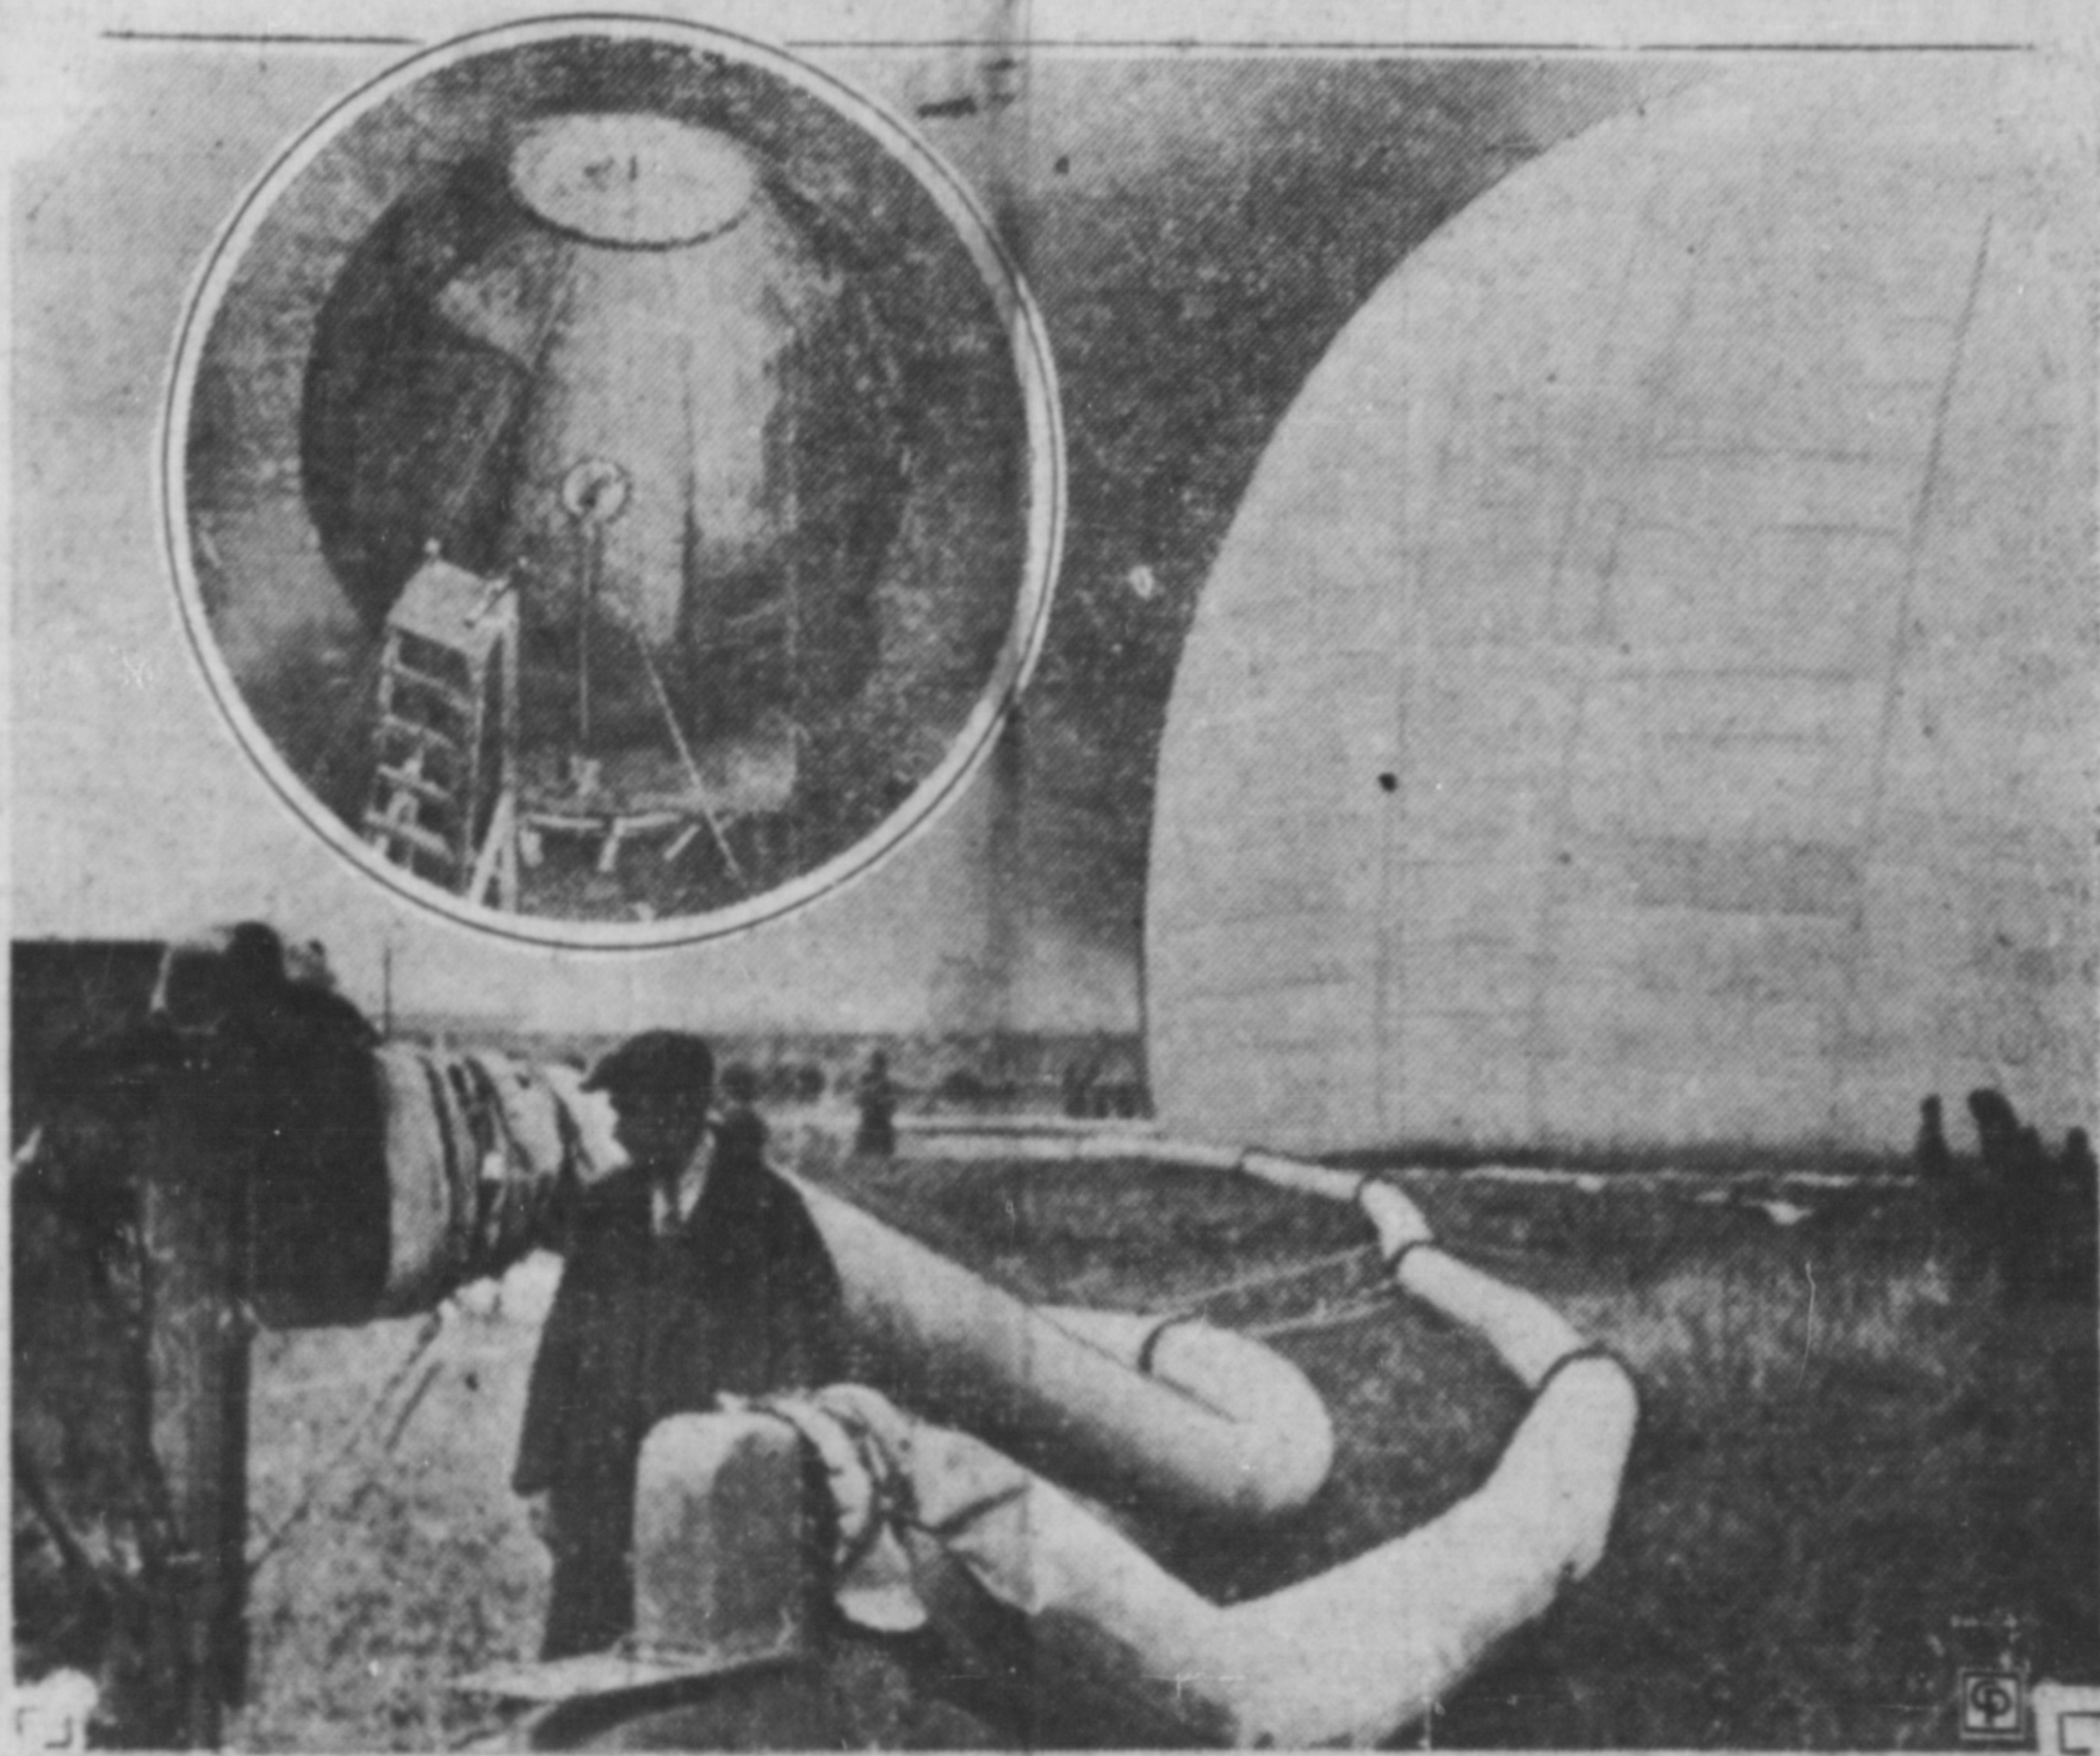

Local Matters
In opening his address, Mr. Pattullo expressed his pleasure at being again in Prince Rupert to address such a large audience. This community, he said, had had many disappointments but he was confident that there were better things in store for the immediate future. He referred to the great potentialities of the north, the development of which must some day be of immense value to Prince Rupert.

The world today, said Mr. Pattullo, was facing more and greater problems in the social and economical field than ever before, these being due largely to the progress of civilization. Turning to matters political, Mr. Pattullo declared that all the multiplicity of parties in the provincial field today had received their inspiration from the Liberal party—even the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation had designed much of its platform from that of the Liberals.

Despite the pussyfooting which might be done to disguise it, Mr. Pattullo declared that the C. C. F. stood for a straight socialistic state and no socialistic state could be maintained without force. Under a C. C. F. government there could be no such personal freedom of expression and initiative as was permitted under the capitalistic system. What the C. C. F. would actually set up would be a socialistic autocracy. The Liberal party took the course that it stood for the greatest benefit for the greatest number.

Mr. Pattullo expressed the view
