Unprecedented Gesture

IP THE STREET in the Co-op bakery window we notice an Associated Boards of Trade delegates' welcome display, which we think marks an unprecedented new expression of community spirit. Dainty little cakes have been arranged to form the setting for a welcome sign. One of the little groups spells "Co-op" and the other "P.R.C.C." (Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce.) We like the gesture and see beyond the mere words a new attitude of unity and well-wishing of groups within the community.

Possibly some of us would never have expected to see the time when the Co-op and the Chamber of Commerce would ever be combined together in gesture of this nature. But this is the kind of thing that indicates the spirit of co-operation which builds and develops communities and districts. There may be some theories in which the co-ops and the chambers of commerce may not have much in common but there is something satisfying to see them get together in welcoming a group of delegates, such as those who are gathering today for the Associated Boards convention, a group which has as its objective the building up and development of the district and its communities for the common good of all. Hats off, we say to the co-op, for this broad-minded gesture!

B. C. PRODUCTS SHOW

THOSE WHO ATTEND the B. C. Products display in the Civic Centre tonight, and the whole city seems to be taking a very keen interest in it, are going to have a colorful treat. We have had the opportunity of a preview of the show and found it a graphic exposition, most efficiently arranged, of a wide and interesting variety of goods and articles produced in British Columbia. In fact, there are many almost amazing features—certainly a lot of things we had hardly even thought could be made here.

Vying with the exhibits of manufactured goods from the southern part of the province are some very creditable displays of local manufacturers and business people.

We can assure our readers of a novel and interesting show and recommend that all should see it.

PALESTINE QUESTION

THE U.N. PALESTINE investigating commission will be made up of representatives of Australia, Iran, India, Czechoslovakia, The Netherlands, Sweden, Uruguay, Canada, Peru, Guatemala and Yugoslavia . . . There are roughly 10 possible solutions which they could recommend on September 1, the deadline for completion of their job. They run like this, with the first four calling for independence almost immediately:

1. An Arab-Jewish dual nation.

2. Partition into individual Jewish and Arab countries.

3. A Jewish country. 4. An Arab country.

5. Placing Palestine under UN trusteeship with Britain as sole administrator.

6. Placing Palestine under UN trusteeship, with several countries as joint administrators.

7. Placing Palestine under UN trusteeship, with the UN itself as administrator. (Such a plan suggested by former Secretary of State James Byrnes for the Italian colonies). 8. A Palestine government along the lines of that drafted for Trieste in the Italian peace treaty. Under this system the Holy Land would be placed directly under the Security Council with that body to name a Governor and supervise the administration through him. 9. A protectorate relationship such as France has with Morocco. Under this plan, there would be limitations on Palestine's foreign relations and its military outlay.

10. Some type of interim government, probably under the UN, to take over until a final decision could be reached.

Greeting

G. A. HUNTER

President, Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

On behalf of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce as a whole and on behalf of each member individually may extend a hearty welcome to Prince Rupert to every special visitor and every delegate to this annual convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia. As a new era opens in the development of Prince Rupert and all this vast territory which we represent, it is important and fitting that we should gather together. May our discussion of common problems be mutually beneficial and may our mingling on this auspicious occasion further cement our associations and understandings
