

DUNCAN ROSS'S CAMPAIGN HERE

to the development not only of the islands but of the port of Prince Rupert." (Loud cheers).

Only Sore in Places

One instance of loyalty to the cause Mr. Ross drew attention to was that of J. S. Cowper, and his ride of 120 miles through a storm from Queen Charlotte City to Masset, which was made in the record time of twenty-three hours. "No matter," said Mr. Ross, "how sore Mr. Cowper may feel in places we know that his heart is all right." (Laughter).

The large gathering would insist upon hearing from Mr. Cowper, and Fred Stork, who acted as chairman of the proceedings, with a few jovial phrases called upon that gentleman. He told of an enthusiastic meeting he had addressed at Queen Charlotte before he took the ride Mr. Ross had tried to make memorable. It was a meeting where the Conservatives and the Liberals were gathered and they had a heart to heart talk on reciprocity as it would affect the islands that lasted for two hours. They then separated with hearty cheers for Ross and Reciprocity.

Dread to Hear Truth

Frank Angers told of the incident which had happened to him at the Conservative meeting in McIntyre Hall. He said he had gone there as a Liberal to hear Dr. Young, on the chance that something Dr. Young might say might be of interest to him, as he always was liberal enough to be open to conviction. The incident, he said, showed that the Conservatives dreaded to hear the truth.

"Now let us suppose," he went on, "that the impossible were to happen. It is not to be thought of, of course, but all the same, let us suppose the Conservative party were returned to power. Where would they get their next ministry from?"

An Army of Rebels

"There would be Mr. Borden, whom the leading elements in the party were endeavoring to get rid of because they thought he was not a capable leader. There would be Clifford Sifton, the renegade Liberal. There would be Henri Bourassa, who hates everything British and is opposed to British loyalty and a Canadian navy."

"And there would be Richard McBride, whose course is pretty well run in British Columbia and who is now accused of secretly conspiring with the Conservative interest in the hope of pushing out Borden that he may become the leader. The leader of an army of rebels. A more disunited number of discordant elements to send the country to destruction could hardly be equalled anywhere in the whole world." (Cheers).

VERY NARROW SQUEAK

Charge of Supplying Failed for Technical Reason

William Woolacott, a quarter-breed Indian, escaped by the skin of his teeth from a term in jail this morning, and this fact was duly impressed upon him by Magistrate McMullin. He had been seen by Indian Agent Perry to get a bottle of whisky and to take it to a Chinese restaurant. Mr. Perry shadowed him and saw the bottle and three glasses set on a table all ready for drinking. There the charge of "supplying" fell to the ground.

LABOR AND THE LIBERALS

Important Statement of President of Grand Trunk Employees Showing How Well the Laurier Ministry Guarded the Interests of Labor.

James Murdock, president of the Grand Trunk Employees, stated publicly in Berlin, that through the efforts of the minister of militia and the minister of labor, the employees got better terms than they had ever expected or hoped to get.

That is a tribute to the worth of two members of the cabinet and shows what party sympathies with unionism. It was reported time after time that the Grand Trunk employees were disaffected with the government and they were going to turn upon George Graham and rend him to pieces in Brockville.

However, those are the words of the president of the men. He knew what happened and that is what he said.

POLLS CLOSE AT 5 P.M.

In all Dominion elections the doors of polling booths open at 9 o'clock a. m. and close at 5 p. m. All votes must be cast between these hours. In provincial and municipal elections the polling stations remain open until 7 o'clock in the evening, a fact which sometimes creates confusion in the mind of the elector. Do not forget that on September 21 the doors of the polling booths will be closed sharply on the hour of 5.

LOCAL OWNERS OF NEW HAZELTON

Northern Interior Land Co., a Close Corporation of Our Most Prominent and Successful Business Men.

The Northern Interior Land Company which is advertising on another page the sale of lots in the new townsite called New Hazelton, is a close corporation comprising some of the most prominent and successful business men in British Columbia. They own large tracts of land all along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific and are probably doing more for the development of the interior tributary to Prince Rupert than any other body of men.

Unlike most syndicates they are not acquiring land and holding it for speculation until the efforts of other people have enhanced its value, but are spending large sums in development work. The officers of the company are: Angus Stewart, president; Donald McLeod, vice-president; C. W. Peck, secretary and treasurer. Among the directors are Vernon W. Smith, D. L. McHugh, J. M. McMillan, M. Sheedy, J. A. Smith, Captain F. B. Johnson and D. M. Moore. As such men as these have put their cold cash into the New Hazelton townsite proposition there should be little misgiving as to its ultimate success.

CZAR SAW HIS PREMIER SHOT

Great Russian Statesman Mortally Wounded by Assassin Who Fired at Him Twice During Opera.

(Canadian Press Despatch) Kiev, Sept. 16.—Premier Stolypin was last night attacked and mortally wounded by an unknown assassin while at the opera. The Czar himself was present in the theatre when the shot was fired, and might have been the victim of the next shot, had the assassin not been instantly secured by the police. The dying premier was hurried from the theatre box to an anteroom where medical attendance was rendered by prominent surgeons in the audience. The play stopped, but it was impossible to get the audience to disperse until definite accounts of the premier's condition had been given out from the stage. When it was learned that the premier still lingered in life, the audience slowly left the building.

Kiev, Sept. 16.—(Later)—It is now reported that the wounds of Premier Stolypin may not prove fatal.
