THE BIG FIGHT

From many angles the biggest fight that has taken place in England in years will be that between Jem Driscoll, English featherweight champion, and Owen Moran. It is to be held December 2 at Birmingham, Moran's native city, and preparations are being made for the battle upon much the same scale as for a world's championship affair in the States. And in one respect at least the two will be very much alike. Exchanges say the men in charge of the Driscoll-Moran affair are having tickets printed that are the exact replica of those for the Johnson-Jeffries mill. Nothing of that sort has ever been seen in England. There will be accommodation for something over 17,000, and the price of seats will run all the way from five shillings to five guineas, the latter being, of course, the price for the choicest box and ringside seats. The building itself will be 260 feet long by just about one-half that width. Although the boxes are to make weight the affair is not for any time. Driscoll has already gone into active training. The featherweight champion is, as usual, at Cardiff, while Owen Moran is quartered at Malvern. The bout is to be refereed by Eugene Corri, and Corri's very presence in the ring will give it any tone it might otherwise lack through being staged outside of London and the National Sporting Club.

LORD DERBY AS WINNER

English sporting papers to hand by yesterday's mail contain a statistical table of the winning breeders, owners, trainers and jockeys on the turf, compiled from March 20 to November 3, inclusive. Lord Derby heads the list of winning owners (his total winnings amounting to £41,460. During the season his nine horses won twenty-eight big events. J. B. Joel, owner of the Derby winner this year, is second with winnings aggregating £34,629. Mr. Joel entered seventeen horses during the season and won thirty-five races. Lord Derby and Mr. Joel are the only owners who won above £10,000 during the season. Mr. Joel leads among winning breeders, while the leading trainer was Hon. G. Lambton. F. Wooten was the leading jockey, with a percentage of 25.29. He had 680 mounts during the season. His record shows 172 firsts, 136 seconds, 112 thirds and 260 unplaced. Mr. Fairlie, who led the list of winning owners last year, is fourth on the list this year, his winnings during the season aggregating £9,607. Third place on the list is occupied by C. E. Howard, who won £10,014.
