ROMANCE OF WEST

Joan Bennett and Randolph Scott Co-Starred in Excellent Week-End Picture, "The Texans"

"The Texans," week-end feature offering on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here with Joan Bennett and Randolph Scott heading the cast, is a story of the struggle of the south for freedom and self rule after the war between the states.

Miss Bennett plays the part of a spitfire southern belle who wants to detach Texas from the Union. Scott is a homecoming Dixie soldier who pleads with Texans to forget their past hatreds and build a new life for themselves in the great cattle empire of the southwest.

The fortunes of a typical Texan family are traced including the moving of a great cattle cavalcade through the wilds of Texas and Oklahoma into thriving Kansas where a new railroad provides them with a ready market for their steers.

Essentially romantic, the story, however, is embellished with plenty of action, making for general interest.

Besides Scott and Joan Bennett, the cast includes such well known players as May Robson, Walter Brennan, Robert Barrat and Robert Cummings.

ARAB TRRORIST CONDEMNED BY HAIFA COURT

Heavily guarded to prevent possibility of forcible release by his followers, the Arab chieftain Sheik Farhan es Saidi is taken from the military court sitting at Haifa, Palestine, after hearing sentence of death passed upon him for possession of firearms and munitions. The Sheik was seized by British authorities as a leader of Arab terorists, in their drive to clear the Holy Land of pillaging bands. The condemned man is pointed out by the arrow.

AIRD WAS GRAND OLD BANK MAN

Always Emphasized World Trade as Canada's Greatest Opportunity

TORONTO, December 2 (Canadian Press)—Grand old man of Canadian banking, Sir John Aird, who died here Wednesday, retired from the presidency of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in January, 1907—after three-score years with the bank in which he never lost a day's work through any kind of illness. He had never been out of a job.

A youth of 23, he entered the bank in 1878 looking for a typist's job. Successively clerk, secretary branch manager at Seaforth, Ont., assistant manager at Toronto, manager at Winnipeg, superintendent of Central Western branches, assistant general manager and general manager he became president in 1924.

Famed as a banker international he was long head of the Canadian branch of the American Bankers' Association and president of the Canadian Bankers' Association. His travels took him around the world.

Particularly well acquainted with international trade and well-informed on the Canadian West, he was directly responsible for the growth of his bank's vast branch system in Western Canada. Years after he spotted branches through the West it was found there were few in the new drought areas. He had chosen locations—at a time when the West's future was wholly problematical—that would serve the most consistent production areas.

Sure of Great Britain

He became general manager of the bank in 1915 and for his unobtrusive but valuable national services was knighted in 1917. One of the most popular stories about Sir John concerns a meeting between Sir Thomas White, then minister of finance, and the general managers of Canadian banks early in the Great War when a proposed British Government loan of $200,000,000 was under discussion.

An ultra-cautious conferee asked: "Are you sure that when the war is over the covenant of Britain to pay will be worth anything?"

"Hell," rugged Sir John was quoted as replying, "If the covenant of Britain to pay is not good we'll all be in hades together."

An ardent advocate of a greater population for Canada through immigration, he thought the Dominion should have at least 25,000,000 citizens. He was in favor of lower tariffs, of less government interference in business and of union of the three Maritime provinces, possibly including Newfoundland.

Plenty of exercise was the secret of Sir John's vigorous, sturdy health over a lifetime. In his youth he played on the world champion team of the Toronto lacrosse Club with such men as the late General Sir Sam Hughes. In his elder days he often walked down to his office at the bank's headquarters.

Stressed World Trade

In five years from 1900 Sir John travelled the West and Eastern Canada, a total of around 90,000 miles. He crossed the Atlantic more than a score of times and in 1928-29, when he was chairman of the royal commission on radio broadcasting which led to formation of the Canadian Radio Commission he made a world tour that took him 75,000 miles in 11 months.

World trade, he always emphasized, was Canada's greatest opportunity. "Canada will eventually develop into a great commercial country," he said once. "And it is most important that young Canadians should be prepared for international relationships. They should study foreign languages, French, German, Italian, Spanish Dutch."

A Conservative and an Anglican he was a member of clubs in Toronto, Winnipeg and London, England, director of a score or more financial institutions and actively interested in the progress of Havergal College for Women, Toronto
