THURSDAY, MAY 23

PRINCE RUPERT'S PATRIOTIC TWENTY-FOURTH.

In spite of noble efforts on the part of the imperially inclined, Prince Rupert citizens have decided not to make any especial attempt to mark the 24th of May, Empire Day, or Victoria Day, whichever you may prefer to term it. In the multitude of councillors there is wisdom, and vox populi, whether it be really vox dei or not, is quite a power in the land. Prince Rupert has acted quite sensibly in quietly turning down all attempts at organizing a special celebration within the city's limits to mark the occasion of the 24th. A very much healthier and happier day will be spent by the citizens in taking advantage of the many excellent opportunities offered them for getting away for a while from the townsite which has been the scene of their joys and sorrows, struggles and successes for many a month past.

Imperialist opinion notwithstanding, Prince Rupert is not going to be accused of disloyalty to the imperial idea or even to the memory of the great and good Queen by preferring to go forth into the fresh and the free, over wave and up mountain-side, or along the gleaming ribbon of the steel, as her manner of celebrating the 24th, instead of having a dusty gathering in the city's centre for the glory of a company of athletes to the parching of many throats big and small. There is something quite appreciably more imperial in the idea of spreading abroad by land and sea on Empire Day than in congestion together for one narrow purpose. In their manner of observing Empire Day Prince Rupert citizens may consider themselves just as patriotic as they are sensible.

Dominion Day is not far distant, and on that occasion it is highly probable that there will be sports in plenty for the young athletes of the city, with a very much greater chance of success for the program than would have been the case had matters been scrambled into shape for tomorrow. The men will be in better training; there will probably be more financial support concentrated on the single day than if subscriptions had been solicited for Empire Day with Dominion Day looming in front, and there is very good reason to believe that there will be a much bigger crowd of visitors to impress with the very excellent abilities of our Prince Rupert athletes.

CONSERVATISM FROM WITHIN.

When the late Dominion government created the Civil Service Commission and placed the "inside" service at Ottawa under its control Mr. Borden commended that departure and spoke in an admirably high minded manner about the desirability of doing away with the patronage evil in politics, declaring himself in favor of extending the control of the commission to the entire civil service.

Mr. Borden unquestionably desires to be honest and consistent, and if left to himself he would doubtless measure up to expectations, but the trouble is he is surrounded by a nest of hungry, thirsting wolves, and they evidently overpower his better judgment. If he would but cast aside the heelers of his party and exert his own personal wholesome influence he would not only be doing the country a splendid public service, but in the end he would immeasurably strengthen his party by recognizing efficiency only in preference to permitting the continuance of the spoils system merely to gratify the selfishness of a lot of shysters who are, in nine cases out of ten, utterly devoid of fitness for public positions and who would never get a look in if merit alone counted for anything, and if the only necessary qualification were not that of playing the dirtiest kind of political trickery.—The Evening Empire.

DETAILS OF THE DISASTER AT SEATTLE FERRY WHARF

MARVELOUS ESCAPE OF MANY PASSENGERS PRECIPITATED INTO WATER BY COLLAPSE OF PATENT SLIP—AVALANCHE OF HUMAN BEINGS HURLED INTO DOCK.

Seattle, May 20.—Mrs. Florence E. Learned of 744 Ballard place and Carl Bruder, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bruder, were drowned and 58 others were injured at the Coleman dock at 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning when the adjustable end of the gangway from which they were boarding the steamer Flyer for Tacoma collapsed.

More than sixty persons fell into the waters of Elliott Bay, twenty feet below. In the midst of a scene of panic, indescribable, a few cool, efficient persons undertook the work of rescue, and rendered great service in pulling out the struggling men, women and children. Many were in the last stages of exhaustion, both from their frightful struggles and from having swallowed quantities of the polluted salt water.

The accident was caused by the springing apart of a worm gear working in the cog wheel which winds up the chains that raise and lower the big slip.

The slip is perhaps forty feet in length by eight feet wide and was well filled with the last of the throng pushing toward the Flyer.

Scarcely a person on the slip escaped going into the water, those on top pushing the less fortunate before them deep into the bay. The wails and shrieks that went up were heart rending and for several moments the people remaining on the dock seemed paralyzed by the sight of the struggling humanity in the water between the boat and the greasy pilings of the dock.

Captain E. B. Coffin of the Flyer instantly gave the danger signal and ordered all hands to throw overboard everything available on deck. Life preservers, planks, the deck gates and gangways were tossed overboard to drowning passengers and a life boat was lowered. Other vessels rendered speedy aid but fully ten minutes elapsed before the last of the victims were rescued from the water by boats, life preservers, ropes and planks.

NEW ACTOR GIVES A NOVEL INTERPRETATION OF 'HAMLET'

IAN MACLAREN MAKES THE MELANCHOLY DANE A FIERY SPIRITED YOUTH AN INTERPRETATION DIFFERENT FROM THE TRADITIONAL HAMLETS OF ACTORS OF PAST AGES.

There is a new Hamlet on the American stage—a Scotch actor, Ian MacLaren, who recently came over to support George Arliss in "Disraeli." Mr. MacLaren loves his Shakespeare and he, with kindred spirits, organized a commemorative performance of Hamlet and gave it at Wallack's Theatre, New York, recently.

As Ophelia, he had Miss Viola Knott, daughter of the famous Hamilton actress, Roselle Knott, and the Canadian girl is said to have given a very creditable performance in the difficult part.

The critic of the Dramatic Mirror writes as follows regarding the new and novel interpretation of Hamlet's character by Mr. MacLaren:

"Another actor has cast his hat into the Shakespearean ring, and it is a piece of headgear worthy of critical attention, because although it is built on a familiar framework, it has several new plumes. Tradition has decreed that Hamlet must be an introspective, philosophical hero, and consequently he has become a sort of monument to soliloquy and inaction. In all recent incarnations Hamlet has worn an old head on his young shoulders, and his demeanor has taken on the temperament of a middle aged scholar.

"For that reason, Ian MacLaren, who is nothing if not original, has thrown down the gauntlet, because his Hamlet from intention and design is an ardent youth. Purposely he eliminates the even balance and the calm thoughtfulness to which we are accustomed, in order to replace it with fire and spirit. As a result, he creates a more emotionally sympathetic character, who really touches the heart. A stickler for tradition may hesitate to accept this version, but certainly Hamlet was a young man, and Mr. MacLaren has not settled upon the interpretation without a logical cause. The only point that admits argument is the reconciliation of such spirit with Hamlet's activity. This difficult matter the actor accomplished with absolute success by many little items of varied shading which cannot be set down at length. He gave the impression that Hamlet was burning with desire for revenge, but that the Prince felt at the same time his own inability to cope with the odds against him. His most illuminating example of this occurred at the close of his scene of instruction to the players. After Ophelia's death he appeared more quiet, more self possessed, as if he were nerving himself up to the task before him. He became the acquiescent instrument of an external power that urged him to strike.

"Mr. MacLaren's originality also appeared in various bits of stage business. He made the exchange of rapiers an intention, not an accident. He used only one picture in the scene with the Queen, imagining the other in the air. In reading certain emotional passages he hastened torrentially through the lines, emphasizing only the climatic points, and dropping the rest into an almost unintelligible shadow.

To his direction also, no doubt, is due Ophelia's final instant of lucidity, when she recognized Laertes and called him by name. Although unwarranted by the text, it was highly effective.

"All of this resulted in a very human, appealing and consistent characterization—not merely a study in classic histrionism."

PHYSICAL MARVEL

First Baby Born After Mother's Death Will Survive.

New York, May 20.—The world's first baby boy to be born after his mother's death is now in Fordham Hospital full of vitality and apparently destined to live. The child was delivered ten minutes after the mother had died of apoplexy, and the boy weighed eight and a half pounds. The case is said by physicians to be most startling, as showing that life persists in the organs following death. The boy's mother was Mrs. Robert Lipschits of 804 East 178th avenue, the Bronx. She died early on Saturday morning.
