

No Charge For Visits, Decides Museum Board

Prince Rupert's museum will be open free of charge to all its visitors when it opens its doors June 15-September 15.

The decision was made by the annual meeting of the museum board after "fact approval" for such action had been received from the city, said Secretary-Treasurer Basil Prockter.

Support of the museum, however, will be sought more than ever from the general public. A contribution box will be placed in the office and a campaign carried out for membership subscription.

Past board members were returned to office, headed by J. Harry Black, chairman; Canon Prockter, secretary - treasurer; Gordon Forbes, F. Earl Anderson, Jack Scott, Duncan Whitmore, Larry Stanwood, members at large, with representation from city council, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

The exhibits were reported to be in good condition and there had been some notable contribution of native basketry by Mrs. Large, and her son, Dr. E. G. Large. The museum had also purchased some excellent specimens of cedar and spruce bark garments and hat work from Mrs. Eliza Abraham, well known native handicraft worker.

It was decided to send a copy of Dr. Large's book, "Soogwillis" to the Secretariat of the Inter-American Congress of Religious History and Art at Buenos Aires. This organization is engaged in establishing a library and museum representing the ancient cultures and traditions of all parts of the Americas.

BC Wealth Calls Orators From Alberta

Mrs. G. W. Kissick, president of the B.C. Women's Liberal Association, believes "it is the wealth of this province that has attracted these orators from Alberta."

Addressing a Liberal meeting in the Civic Centre last night she discussed various Acts in B.C. pertaining to women and in reference to hospital insurance said: "I don't see how we can have any scheme unless it is compulsory."

"I think Mr. Anselcomb is a long way from what the people want in his views on our hospital insurance," said the former Prince Rupert resident who urged re-election of Jack McRae, Liberal candidate in this riding.

She said a recent statement from the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company showed a gross profit last year of $132 million "which is more than the total received by Alberta from their oil and this is only one of the big industries in B.C."

Mrs. Kissick believes more women are taking an interest in government and suggested they see that social welfare is not neglected in all this expansion in B.C.

Jack McRae, appearing at his second public meeting since he was injured last May 10, said he did not agree with "our present system in Canada" which prevents a man from working after he reaches the age of 65.

I believe people who wish to work after they reach that age should be given some opportunity to work at least four or six hours a day if they wish.

"Many of our people are forced to retire because of their age and I believe they would be much

DESTINY TOUCHES THE SKEENA and BULKLEY VALLEYS

People who have pioneered and are today continuing to pioneer in the Skeena and Bulkley valleys of British Columbia don't need to be told their region has a great future. That's why they came. That's why they've stayed . . . when others doubted.

All eyes are turned to the country that huge investments in cellulose, aluminum, power, mining, railroad building are transforming.

At last the country that was "too far away" is drawn into the community of North America.

At last the miracle of men and money in contact with rich resources is happening in the land that only yesterday was "back of beyond" to those who couldn't see the picture.

Faith is a great thing . . . but faith without work and without money is frustrated. The risk capital at last, by the hundreds of millions, is moving into the Skeena-Bulkley region, changing the geography and changing lives, creating opportunities for young Canadians NOW AND IN THE FUTURE.

The money has come because, in years past, British Columbians have gone to the polls and voted for FREE ENTERPRISE.

It has come because it felt it was not faced by the hostility of Socialism but was welcomed and would be given a fair chance.

If we can keep that faith in B.C., industrial greatness cannot fail to come to rich West Central British Columbia.
